Off-Course Craft Bomb Villagers, Level 120 Huts

SAIGON (AP)—Two U.S. Marine planes veered about 3,000 yards from their strike zone and dropped 500-pound bombs by error Tuesday on a friendly Montagnard village. The explosions killed 35 persons and wounded 16.

The village was Hon Ba, in northern Quang Ngai Province, where American Marines are campaigning in Operation Prairie to check the inflow of North Vietnamese troops across the old demilitarized zone blanketing the frontier.

The bombs and a wind-driven fire leveled 120 homes, about three-fourths of the huts making up the village.

The U.S. Command also disclosed that American troops have launched four new search-and-destroy operations and are operating in the Mekong Delta for the first time in the Viet Nam war. Until now the huge delta rice bowl — much of it now under deep flood waters — has been an area of operations solely for South Vietnamese troops.

Only light contact with the enemy was reported in the four new operations, which were launched earlier this month but were not announced until today.

In other war developments, a reconnaissance company of South Vietnamese troops uncovered a huge cache of Viet Cong ammunition and explosives 38 miles south of Saigon in the Mekong Delta.

U.S. authorities began an immediate investigation of the Marine bombing of the friendly village, and Marine helicopters flew the wounded to a government hospital in nearby Quang Ngai City.

Many of the casualties were Montagnards, mountain tribesmen from whose ranks U.S. special forces teams have drawn guerrillas to fight the Communists.

U.S. rescue and civic assistance teams were sent to the village to begin relief work.

The U.S. spokesmen said the two Marine planes were on an air strike against a specified target but dropped their bombs outside the target zone.

There was no immediate word on the cause of the error.

Unofficial sources estimate that a total of 146 South Vietnamese civilians have been killed and 233 wounded in similar bombing and strafing incidents in July and August.

The last village to be bombed by mistake was also in Quang Ngai Province. Military sources said then that Marine planes relying on faulty radar killed three civilians and wounded 30 on Aug. 16.

Alden Says OU Stresses Individuals

ATHENS, Ohio (AP)—President Vernon R. Alden of Ohio University told a university convocation today that in addition to adding the conventional prestige symbols of a growing university, Ohio University is developing programs "reflecting concern for individual students and their creative abilities."

He said concrete experiments already established at the university, including the Honors College, the language houses and the Ohio Fellows program, will be expanded and additional ones added in an effort "to encourage each student to achieve his potential."

He called for concerted effort to build a university of distinction, and he defined a great university as being a dynamic, as contrasted with static, institution.

He said the present 15 doctoral programs now offered at Ohio University will grow from 300 today to 4,000, representing about 20 per cent of the student body.

Jury Acquits Klan Member Of Murder

HAYNEVILLE, Ala. (AP)—A Negro-dominated jury has found a 43-year-old steelworker and member of the Ku Klux Klan innocent of a murder charge in the slaying of a white civil rights worker.

A Circuit Court jury of eight Negroes and four white men took 85 minutes Tuesday night to reach its verdict of acquittal in the trial of Ku Klux Klansman Eugene Thomas for murder in the slaying of Viola Gregg Liuzzo, a white civil rights worker who died in a hail of gunfire from a passing auto on March 25, 1965, a few hours after the Selma-to-Montgomery march ended.

The verdict made Thomas the second member of the hooded order to win state court acquittal in the killing of Mrs. Liuzzo.

While the Detroit housewife was a participant in the march to dramatize Negro voting rights demands, no mention of her as a civil rights volunteer was made in direct testimony in the one-day trial. There was only one mention in the testimony of Thomas, a Bessemer steelworker, as a member of the Klan.

State Atty. Gen. Richmond Flowers, who directed the prosecution for the state, expressed disappointment at the verdict. He called it a "complete breakdown of justice and law and order."

Thomas, who had listened attentively to the testimony which preceded the verdict, told newsmen he "got a fair trial."

The state closed its case without calling a paid witness for the FBI, Gary Thomas Rowe. He had testified in three previous trials that he was an eyewitness to the killing of Mrs. Liuzzo.

Rowe, a former Birmingham bartender who said he joined the Klan to get information for the FBI, testified he was in a car from which the fatal shot was fired, and that Thomas handed his gun to another Klansman, Collie LeRoy Wilkins, to do the shooting.

Wilkins' first trial in the century-old courthouse where Thomas was tried, ended in a deadlock jury. His second trial last October ended in acquittal. The third defendant in the case, William Orville Eaton, died of a heart attack before he could be brought to trial in state court.

All three Klansmen however were convicted in U.S. District Court in Montgomery on conspiracy charges growing out of the Liuzzo killing. Their 10-year sentences are on appeal.

Flowers said he had decided against calling Rowe as a witness because he felt it might do the state's case more harm than good. He said jurors in the other trials had commented they did not believe Rowe's story because he had violated a Klan oath of secrecy.

Experts Hope To Map Ocean Floors

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—More than 300 scientists and industrialists gathered in this inland city today to talk about the technical and legal problems of mapping the oceans.

Accurate maps of the seas and their bottoms are needed before man can fully exploit the riches of the oceans, said A.G. Mourad of Battelle Memorial Institute, which joined in sponsoring the conference here with the U.S. Coast and Geodetic Survey, America's official map-maker.

Mourad, co-chairman of the conference, called for prompt action to plan mapping of ocean bottoms to avoid in the future problems encountered in mapping of the earth's land.

But evolving a unified system for mapping the oceans implies international cooperation and agreement and W. T. Burke of the Ohio State University Law College noted that what sea law exists was developed for such traditional uses of the oceans as navigation.

Just establishing fixed points of reference for mapping raises the question of who controls the sea bottoms, he said.

An indication of future importance of the ocean was suggested by those at the conference — many representatives from oil companies involved in drilling in the oceans and from other industries.

"The industrial interest is really amazing," said Mourad, who said this was "probably the biggest geodesy symposium ever."

Speakers will dwell mainly on the techniques of figuring distances in the ocean, location fixed points and setting markers on the ocean surface and bottom.

Mourad said it is vital to come up now with a plan for mapping the ocean. Then, he said, work on establishing control points—spots of known altitude, latitude and longitude—in the areas where mapping is most needed now. What is most essential now, he said, is agreement on a system of mapping which can be used for the future.

"Sooner or later we're going to have these points in the ocean," he said. "It's a question of time more than anything else."

The conference drew representatives from Finland, Australia, France and Germany.

TWU Delays Air Strike For 12 Hours

Talks Progress In Night Long Negotiations

NEW YORK (AP)—The AFL-CIO Transport Workers Union announced today it was postponing its schedule strike against American Airlines for 12 hours "in view of progress" made during all-night negotiations.

The strike postponement was announced by a union spokesman just 45 minutes before the strike was to start at 6:45 a.m. EDT.

The TWU represents 12,000 nonoperating employees, but a strike would have shut down the entire American Airlines system and idled all 28,000 company employees.

Soon after the union announcement, American issued a statement saying that negotiations were continuing and that "all flights will depart on schedule during the negotiations."

American, which operates 1,000 flights carrying 36,000 passengers to 44 cities in the United States, Canada and Mexico each day, escaped last summer's crippling 43-day strike by the Machinists Union against five major airlines.

Involved in the current contract dispute with American are ground crewmen, mechanics, clerks, communication workers and supply personnel. They overwhelmingly rejected the latest company offer.

The union said it was seeking a 30 per cent wage increase. Hourly wages for its members now range from $2.54 to $3.57, the TWU said.

The company said its contract offer included an increase of 59 cents an hour in top wage brackets in a three-year contract. American contended this was several cents more than the machinists won in their strike against Eastern, National, Trans World, United and Northwest airlines.

The company also said its offer on fringe benefits was better

Marengo Plant Blast Kills 3

MARENGO, Ohio (AP)—Ohio's fourth fatal fireworks explosion of the year has taken three lives, increasing the overall toll to 10.

Two brothers and a fellow employee were victims in Tuesday's blast at the Columbus Fireworks Mfg. Co. plant five miles east of this Morrow County hamlet and 30 miles northeast of Columbus near Interstate 71.

The owner-whose father died in a similar accident in 1939—barely escaped with his life because his brother-in-law called him from the immediate area of the blast just before it happened.

Killed Tuesday at the rural site where the fireworks factory was moved from Columbus about 14 years ago were James Stooksbury Jr., 21, and Marvin Covrett, 28, Covrett's brother Darrell, 20, died late in University Hospital at Columbus. All lived near Marengo.

Owner Joseph Caccavello Jr., figured loss at $25,000 as much of the complex of about 20 tin and wood huts was destroyed, and a truck demolished. But said he was more concerned about "my men." Caccavello's brother-in-law, Howard Dougherty, was working on some machinery in a shed about 400 feet from the one where the explosion originated. He called Caccavello over moments before the blowup.

Three other employees, who rounded out the company work force on the 50-acre site, escaped injury also.

The blast splintered three of the small frame buildings where workers were putting powder into fireworks and damaged others. Three windows shattered in a home a half-mile west of the scene.

Dougherty and Caccavello live in Columbus, where the plant was located when Joseph Caccavello Sr. perished in a 1939 explosion. The company makes exhibition fireworks such as those shot off for holiday displays.

A recent fireworks factory blast near McArthur killed five workers. Similar accidents in Dayton and Cincinnati this year cost one life each.

Inez Lashes Puerto Rico

Judith Prepares To Move West

SAN JUAN, Puerto Rico (AP)—Hurricane Inez, a killer storm that left at least five dead and vast damage on the Caribbean Islands of Guadeloupe, raked Puerto Rico with gales today and churned relentlessly toward the densely populated Dominican Republic.

At the same time more than 1,000 miles to the east, the 10th tropical storm of the season, Judith, boiled up in the tropical Atlantic.

Satellite pictures showed that Judith grew to storm intensity not far south of the spot where Inez began her long and murderous journey.

Gales began lashing the vacation island of Puerto Rico during the morning and were expected to keep it up during most of the day as the tightly coiled storm whipped about 75 miles south.

Slashing rains fell. The Weather Bureau warned that heavy flooding was a danger on the low-lying southern side of the island. Storm tides expected to rush five to eight feet above normal and pounding surf added to the peril even though San Juan apparently would be spared Inez' peak winds of 120 miles an hour.

The Weather Bureau warned the eight million people in the Dominican Republic and Haiti that they were in the direct path of the storm's arrow — straight westerly course.

Judith also spun westerly toward the often-battered Windward Islands from a spot about 2,000 miles southeast of Miami, Fla. Forecasters said the satellite pictures indicated top winds were 45 m.p.h. but could be much higher. A hurricane hunter plane will check the storm's development tonight.

Fragmentary reports from the islands of Guadeloupe said at least five people were killed and many injured. Roads, bridges, homes and sugar and coffee plantations were reported heavily damaged.

Woman Urges Legalized Prostitution

SAIGON, South Viet Nam (AP)—A Vietnamese woman lawyer called today for legalized prostitution in South Viet Nam and cited a government brothel for soldiers in Pleiku as a successful example.

Mrs. Nguyen Thi Vui told a meeting of the Army-People Council that similar centers should be established throughout the country to curb venereal disease and the exploitation of young girls by pimps and madams.

The Army-People Council is an organization to improve relations between civilians and military personnel.

Mrs. Vui said the influx of foreign troops into Viet Nam had increased prostitution and recent government statistics showed that 40 per cent of these girls were suffering from venereal disease.

Prostitution was banned by the late President Ngo Dinh Diem in 1955.

Another council member, Lt. Col. Ngo Kinh, described the government brothel which was opened in Pleiku, in the central highlands, in January. He said the establishment has 20 rooms, and the girls are provided by a matron under contract with the Pleiku Administrative Council. Vietnamese soldiers pay 80 piasters about 60 cents, for a ticket and foreign troops 300 piasters.

Officer Kills Negro Youth; Riot Erupts

Violence Stops But Districts Remain Tense

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—Incensed because a white policeman killed a Negro youngster fleeing a stolen car, rioting Negroes smashed windows, started fires, looted, overturned vehicles and threw barrages of bricks Tuesday night in two San Francisco districts.

Rioting started in the Hunters Point District, where until now there has been no racial violence, and jumped hours later five miles across the city to the Fillmore District, where a near riot was suppressed last summer after a Negro patrolman stopped Negro youths from robbing two white couples.

Gov. Edmund G. Brown called up 2,000 National Guardsmen and with Mayor John F. Shelley imposed a curfew that stopped the violence some four hours after it started.

Although tense, the city remained quiet when the curfew was lifted today at 6 a.m.

During the rioting 11 persons were treated at Mission Emergency Hospital but none was described as seriously injured.

The Fire Department answered 32 calls, many of them false, and eight fire trucks and cars were stoned. All blazes were brought under control quickly.

At the height of the disturbance, 400 San Francisco police, 50 California highway patrolmen and 50 traffic policemen fought back rioters. As the curfew took effect after midnight, the highway patrol was relieved when Police Chief Thomas Cahill decided the crisis was averted, at least for the time being.

Most of the violence was on Third Street, between Newhall and Oakdale streets, a lower middle class area of two-story buildings, most of them with stores on the ground floor and residences above.

Bricks thrown from rooftops came mainly from a pile at St. Peter's Baptist church where a partial demolition had taken place.

Police closed off a 12-square block area at Hunters Point, which is in the southeastern part of San Francisco and became a Negro neighborhood during World War II near shipyards. It also is near Candlestick Park, the home of the San Francisco Giants.

Triggering the riot was the shooting of Matthew Johnson, 16, a Negro who was killed by Patrolman Alvin Johnson after the youth and a companion fled on foot from a stolen car. The policeman said he shouted repeatedly for the youth to stop and fired three warning shots before the fatal shot hit the youth in the back.

Mayor John F. Shelley, speeding to the scene in an unsuccessful attempt to prevent violence, was shouted down and could not make his voice heard. Thomas Roche, assistant fire chief, blamed fire bombs and "other incendiary means" for fires. Flying glass from a broken windshield hurt one fireman, but not seriously.

Violence came on a hot and humid day for San Francisco. It was a moist 89 degrees in the afternoon.

In declaring the curfew, Gov. Brown ordered all persons off the streets in Negro areas of the city, prohibited all automobile traffic there and ordered bars closed.

Brown was campaigning for re-election in San Diego. He ordered out the guardsmen and said the curfew, starting after midnight, would remain in effect until 6 a.m. He said it would start again today at 8 p.m. and last until 6 a.m. Thursday.

2 Men Sent To Prison

Two Pickaway County men were sentenced to the Mansfield State Reformatory today by Judge William Ammer of Common Pleas Court. A Circleville man was placed on probation.

Sam Stanley, Route 1, Lockbourne, was sentenced to the penal institution for three terms of 1-20 years. Probation granted in June for auto larceny was revoked and one sentence was imposed. He appeared today on another auto theft charge and a forgery accusation.

Stanley, 19, pleaded guilty to both charges and appeared on bills of information waiving his rights to a grand jury hearing. Judge Ammer noted that his three sentences would run concurrently.

Earl Jester, 22, Route 1, Mt. Sterling, was sentenced to the reformatory for a period of 1-7 years after violating the terms of his probation granted by the court in Aug. 1965 on a charge of receiving stolen property.

His probation violation amounted to operating a motor vehicle while his driver's license was under revocation, according to the court.

The Circleville man, Tom Griffey, 19, of 465 Watt St., was involved in the latter auto larceny case with Stanley. Griffey pleaded guilty to the accusation and was placed on probation for three years. He also appeared on a bill of information.

A schoolhouse and a church were swept away. Two persons drowned when their boat was wrecked by the dashing seas. The Overseas Ministry in Paris said that a housing development at the airport at Pointe a Pitre, the capital, was flooded, and residents had to be rescued by military trucks.

A French naval ship from Martinique was sent to help the storm victims on the tropic island chain.

Whipping 65,000 square miles of the Caribbean with gales, the storm churned westward at 17 miles an hour.

At 10 a. m. (EDT) it was 104 miles due south of San Juan, about 1,100 miles southeast of Miami, Fla.

If she held to that course, Hurricane Inez would barrel directly into the southern shore of the Dominican Republic not far from Santo Domingo, capital of the politically troubled country.

Beyond the Dominican Republic lies Haiti, where 4,000 persons were killed by Hurricane Flora in 1964.

The two countries, which share the islands of Hispaniola, are extremely mountainous, with some peaks of 10,000 feet. The mountains could break up the tightly coiled storm, the Weather Bureau said, saving the U. S. mainland from danger.

But the National Hurricane Center at Miami said it was too early to predict what might happen.

Inez gave Guadeloupe, a French possession on the eastern edge of the Caribbean, its second direct hit by a hurricane in two years. In 1934, Hurricane Cleo blasted the seven small islands with 81-mile winds, leaving 14 dead and many of the sugar and banana plantations in ruins.

Most communication lines to Guadeloupe were blacked out by the storm and airlines canceled flights, so direct reports of damage were sketchy.

than that given the machinists.

The machinists signed a last Jan. 1, which will bring the top hourly scale to $4.08.

A company source reported the most difficult unresolved issue was a union demand for the proposed wage package to be included in a two-year contract, instead of in three years.

The TWU members first voted strike authorization last Spring. President Johnson named an emergency board and invoked terms of the Railway Labor Act last July 27 to delay the walk-out.

The board, however, made no recommendations for a settlement and said there was a chance the parties could resolve the issues without a strike. In its Aug. 30 report, the board warned against an "exaggerated settlement."

With the 60-day cooling-off period expiring at midnight Monday, President Johnson was left with no legal remedy to head off the strike.

Stocks Take Steep Slide

NEW YORK (AP)—The stock market embarked on another steep slide early this afternoon. Trading was moderate.

Losses of fractions to 1 or 2 points among leading issues were the general rule. Du Pont took a sizable loss exceeding 5 points, dragging the averages.

The Dow Jones industrial average at noon was off 7.29 at 786.80.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks at noon was off 1.6 at 284.4 with industrials off 4.0, rails up .2 and utilities off 4.

According to the court.

is assistant director of Youth for Service, an organization for juveniles, estimated that between 600 and 700 persons were involved in the Hunters Point trouble, most of them between 13 and 30 years old. Pinkney said almost all lived in the neighborhood.

Very few, he said, were not members of the Hunters Point community.

Wild and exaggerated rumors spread all through the area. Austin Scott, an Associated Press reporter, heard one man tell another, "We overturned 60 police cars." The reporter also heard another man say, "They shot 13 kids down."

As the rioting spread, a grocery in the Fillmore district was looted before police barricaded areas there. Fillmore, in the northwestern part of San Francisco, has traditionally been the home of the city's Negroes.

Police called in off-duty officers and told them to shoot to kill if threatened. They were instructed to arrest any person who disobeyed the curfew after one warning.

Mayor Shelley suspended the policeman who fired the fatal shot pending an investigation. He said it was established the car was stolen and told newsmen, "We will not have one law for blacks and one law for whites."

Lillian Smith, Author, Dies

ATLANTA, Ga. (AP)—Lillian Smith, novelist, essayist and an early spokesman for civil rights in the South, died today at an Atlanta hospital after a lingering illness. She was 68.

Her controversial first book, "Strange Fruit," about a tragic love affair between a white boy and a Negro girl, was a best seller and won her international recognition. It sold more than three million copies.

High Court To Hear Appeal On Robbery Conviction

The Ohio Supreme Court today agreed to hear an appeal by David Leroy Shepard, Circleville, concerning an armed robbery conviction in June, 1965.

Shepard had filed a motion in Pickaway County Common Pleas Court this summer asking for a new trial. The motion was not allowed.

According to records, Shepard said in his new trial motion filed locally he would act as his own counsel. He later requested the court to appoint a lawyer.

Judge William Ammer ruled his right to court appointed counsel was waived when he said he would be his own lawyer.

Shepard was convicted of the robbery of Logan Elm Inn on Route 23 south of Circleville. Also convicted was Glendon Brown of Columbus.

BROWN entered a plea of guilty to the charge and appeared before Pickaway County Common Pleas Court on a bill of information.

The Supreme Court today turned down the appeal of Eugene W. Duling, slayer of a Columbus police lieutenant, and set his execution date for Oct. 28.

The court's unanimous ruling let stand his conviction on a charge of first degree murder which carried no recommendation for mercy and an automatic death sentence.

Lawyers for the condemned man are expected to appeal to the U. S. Supreme Court.

Duling was convicted in the fatal shooting Nov. 5, 1965 of Police Lt. Allen Fraley who had gone with two other officers to investigate a disturbance at a north Columbus apartment.

The 31-year-old Duling contended in his appeal that his lawyers were not permitted to see statements made by him while under drugs at a hospital, and that the slain officer's uniform was displayed repeatedly before jurors at his trial. His appeal also stated that the trial court failed to charge the jury on a possible finding of second degree murder.

In another case, the court let stand the conviction of Robert Raymond Abbott, Kentucky shoe salesman sentenced to life imprisonment in Cincinnati's trunk murder case.

He was convicted in the fatal shooting of Wanda Cook, 24-year old nurse whose body was found in Cleveland after being shipped there in a trunk from Cincinnati.

Counsel for Abbott based his appeal on charges that he failed to receive a fair trial because of publicity given the case by news media. Miss Cook was slain in Cincinnati Oct. 13, 1964.

Agreed to hear the case of Raymond Ross Holt, sentenced to life imprisonment Oct. 29, 1965 for the rape of a 7-year-old girl in Butler County. He asked that his appeal be allowed after the appellate court ruled the legal time limit had elapsed.

Agreed to review lower court decisions blocking the rezoning for all business of 66 acres in Boardman Township, Mahoning County. Commercial Enterprises Inc., and others contended the 2-1 vote by which Boardman council rejected the move was insufficient. 2 Men Sent To Prison

Two Pickaway County men were sentenced to the Mansfield State Reformatory today by Judge William Ammer of Common Pleas Court. A Circleville man was placed on probation.

Sam Stanley, Route 1, Lockbourne, was sentenced to the penal institution for three terms of 1-20 years. Probation granted in June for auto larceny was revoked and one sentence was imposed. He appeared today on another auto theft charge and a forgery accusation.

Stanley, 19, pleaded guilty to both charges and appeared on bills of information waiving his rights to a grand jury hearing. Judge Ammer noted that his three sentences would run concurrently.

Earl Jester, 22, Route 1, Mt. Sterling, was sentenced to the reformatory for a period of 1-7 years after violating the terms of his probation granted by the court in Aug. 1965 on a charge of receiving stolen property.

His probation violation amounted to operating a motor vehicle while his driver's license was under revocation, according to the court.

Inez Lashes

A schoolhouse and a church were swept away. Two persons drowned when their boat was wrecked by the dashing seas. The Overseas Ministry in Paris said that a housing development at the airport at Pointe a Pitre, the capital, was flooded, and residents had to be rescued by military trucks.

A French naval ship from Martinique was sent to help the storm victims on the tropic island chain.

Whipping 65,000 square miles of the Caribbean with gales, the storm churned westward at 17 miles an hour.

At 10 a. m. (EDT) it was 104 miles due south of San Juan, about 1,100 miles southeast of Miami, Fla.

If she held to that course, Hurricane Inez would barrel directly into the southern shore of the Dominican Republic not far from Santo Domingo, capital of the politically troubled country.

Beyond the Dominican Republic lies Haiti, where 4,000 persons were killed by Hurricane Flora in 1964.

The two countries, which share the islands of Hispaniola, are extremely mountainous, with some peaks of 10,000 feet. The mountains could break up the tightly coiled storm, the Weather Bureau said, saving the U. S. mainland from danger.

But the National Hurricane Center at Miami said it was too early to predict what might happen.

Inez gave Guadeloupe, a French possession on the eastern edge of the Caribbean, its second direct hit by a hurricane in two years. In 1954, Hurricane Cleo blasted the seven small islands with 81-mile winds, leaving 14 dead and many of the sugar and banana plantations in ruins.

Most communication lines to Guadeloupe were blacked out by the storm and airlines canceled flights, so direct reports of damage were sketchy.

TWU Delays

than that given the machinists. The machinists signed a last Jan. 1, which will bring the top hourly scale to $4.08.

A company source reported the most difficult unresolved issue was a union demand for the proposed wage package to be included in a two-year contract, instead of in three years. The TWU members first voted strike authorization last Spring. President Johnson named an emergency board and invoked terms of the Railway Labor Act last July 27 to delay the walk-out.

The board, however, made no recommendations for a settlement and said there was a chance the parties could resolve the issues without a strike. In its Aug. 30 report, the board warned against an "exaggerated settlement."

With the 60-day cooling-off period expiring at midnight Monday, President Johnson was left with no legal remedy to head off the strike.

Stocks Take Steep Slide

NEW YORK (AP)—The stock market embarked on another steep slide early this afternoon. Trading was moderate.

Losses of fractions to 1 or 2 points among leading issues were the general rule. Du Pont took a sizable loss exceeding 5 points, dragging the averages.

The Dow Jones industrial average at noon was off 7.22 at 786.80.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks at noon was off 1.6 at 284.4 with industrials off 4.0, rails up .2 and utilities off .4.

cording to the court.

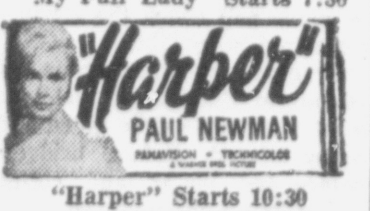

The Circleville man, Tom Griffey, 19, of 465 Watt St., was involved in the latter auto larceny case with Stanley. Griffey pleaded guilty to the accusation and was placed on probation for three years. He also appeared on a bill of information.

Motorist Fined $250 By Judge

Gilbert Lunsford, 26, Mt. Sterling, cited by Pickaway County Sheriff Dwight Radcliff following an accident, was fined $250 and costs Tuesday in Circleville Municipal Court.

Lunsford was charged with driving while under the influence of intoxicants and with failure to maintain an assured clear distance in which to stop.

In addition to the fine, Judge Sterling M. Lamb sentenced Lunsford to three days in the County Jail and ordered his driving rights suspended for six months.

Other motorists listed on the court docket were:

Ronnie Gail Jones, 18, London; $60 bond forfeiture for driving left of center.

Michael Mills, 39, Amanda; $41 and costs for speeding 85 miles per hour in a 50 mile zone.

Pony Apparently Ridden Too Hard

Robert Hartley, 154 E. Water St., told Circleville Police today someone apparently had taken his pony from a barn at the Fairgrounds and rode it during the night.

According to Hartley, the pony was unable to stand today because it had been ridden too much.

Officer Kills

is assistant director of Youth for Service, an organization for juveniles, estimated that between 600 and 700 persons were involved in the Hunters Point trouble, most of them between 13 and 30 years old. Pinkney said almost all lived in the neighborhood.

Very few, he said, were not members of the Hunters Point community.

Wild and exaggerated rumors spread all through the area. Austin Scott, an Associated Press reporter, heard one man tell another, "We overturned 60 police cars." The reporter also heard another man say, "They shot 13 kids down."

As the rioting spread, a grocery in the Fillmore district was looted before police barricaded areas there. Fillmore, in the northwestern part of San Francisco, has traditionally been the home of the city's Negroes.

Police called in off-duty officers and told them to shoot to kill if threatened. They were instructed to arrest any person who disobeyed the curfew after one warning.

Mayor Shelley suspended the policeman who fired the fatal shot pending an investigation. He said it was established the car was stolen and told newsmen, "We will not have one law for blacks and one law for whites."

Lillian Smith, Author, Dies

ATLANTA, Ga. (AP)—Lillian Smith, novelist, essayist and an early spokesman for civil rights in the South, died today at an Atlanta hospital after a lingering illness. She was 68.

Her controversial first book, "Strange Fruit," about a tragic love affair between a white boy and a Negro girl, was a best seller and won her international recognition. It sold more than three million copies.

High Court To Hear Appeal On Robbery Conviction

The Ohio Supreme Court today agreed to hear an appeal by David Leroy Shepard, Circleville, concerning an armed robbery conviction in June, 1965.

Shepard had filed a motion in Pickaway County Common Pleas Court this summer asking for a new trial. The motion was not allowed.

According to records, Shepard said in his new trial motion filed locally he would act as his own counsel. He later requested the court to appoint a lawyer.

Judge William Ammer ruled his right to court appointed counsel was waived when he said he would be his own lawyer.

Shepard was convicted of the robbery of Logan Elm Inn on Route 23 south of Circleville. Also convicted was Glendon Brown of Columbus.

BROWN entered a plea of guilty to the charge and appeared before Pickaway County Common Pleas Court on a bill of information.

The Supreme Court today turned down the appeal of Eugene W. Duling, slayer of a Columbus police lieutenant, and set his execution date for Oct. 28.

The court's unanimous ruling let stand his conviction on a charge of first degree murder which carried no recommendation for mercy and an automatic death sentence.

Lawyers for the condemned man are expected to appeal to the U. S. Supreme Court.

Duling was convicted in the fatal shooting Nov. 5, 1965 of Police Lt. Allen Fraley who had gone with two other officers to investigate a disturbance at a north Columbus apartment.

The 31-year-old Duling contended in his appeal that his lawyers were not permitted to see statements made by him while under drugs at a hospital, and that the slain officer's uniform was displayed repeatedly before jurors at his trial. His appeal also stated that the trial court failed to charge the jury on a possible finding of second degree murder.

In another case, the court let stand the conviction of Robert Raymond Abbott, Kentucky shoe salesman sentenced to life imprisonment in Cincinnati's trunk murder case.

He was convicted in the fatal shooting of Wanda Cook, 24-year-old nurse whose body was found in Cleveland after being shipped there in a trunk from Cincinnati.

Counsel for Abbott based his appeal on charges that he failed to receive a fair trial because of publicity given the case by news media. Miss Cook was slain in Cincinnati Oct. 15, 1964.

Agreed to hear the case of Raymond Ross Holt, sentenced to life imprisonment Oct. 29, 1965 for the rape of a 7-year-old girl in Butler County. He asked that his appeal be allowed after the appellate court ruled the legal time limit had elapsed.

Agreed to review lower court decisions blocking the rezoning for all business of 66 acres in Boardman Township, Mahoning County. Commercial Enterprises Inc., and others contended the 2-1 vote by which Boardman council rejected the move was insufficient. They said a unanimous vote was required because the proposal had approval of the county planning commission and the Boardman Zoning Commission.

Electric lights are being installed in a Washington state highway culvert so migrating salmon can find their way through the murky waters. Fine idea — but how do you teach a fish to stop on red and go ahead on green?

Good thing fish aren't suspicious creatures — they might figure there's a hook somewhere in this idea.

"What you need is a complete change, Mrs. Bartlett. Find another doctor."

Speaking of YOUR HEALTH...

By LESTER L. COLEMAN, M.D.

How can people protect themselves against the gadgets that turn out to be medical frauds?

It is difficult to believe that sophisticated people in all walks of life still fall prey to exploitation by some manufacturers and by distributors of worthless gadgets. It is estimated that almost a billion dollars a year are virtually stolen from the pockets of people least equipped to part with them, by promoters of false claim medical quackery. The distributors of these "hospital tested", "scientifically proven", "doctors endorsed", "guaranteed" cures cleverly avoid legal prosecution. They word their fraudulent "alleged cures" to entice the gullible buyer.

There is a single prime rule that must be known and respected. If these bogus "black magic" gadgets and preparations are to be driven off the market. That rule is "don't buy it unless it is specifically recommended by your physician."

It must be perfectly obvious that if a special preparation had any merit it would be included in any one of the many trusted medical texts that are a constant source of reference to the doctor.

Complex machines are sold with a "money back guarantee" for the relief of arthritis, for rejuvenation, for the regrowth of hair, and for almost all conditions that make the anxious person the victim of this well planned parasitic hoax.

Why does a pharmacist frequently refuse to renew a prescription? Many people forget that a pharmacist is a highly trained reliable part of the health team. By his training in chemistry and in the exact preparation and compounding of drugs the pharmacist serves as a protective service between the physician and the patient.

The instructions on a prescription are carefully followed to the letter. If there is the slightest question or doubt about the dosage the pharmacist immediately calls the doctor to verify its accuracy.

When a doctor writes a prescription he carefully chooses the amount of the drug to satisfy the immediate needs of his patient. If the drug is to be repeated it will say so on the bottom of the prescription and will tell the pharmacist exactly how often the drug can be renewed.

This is a protective device to keep the patient from self-medicating himself, his friends and his family for symptoms that seem to be similar to his own.

The pharmacist is not allowed and is in fact punishable if he were to give a patient barbiturates, amphetamines, narcotics and other drugs with the understanding that a prescription will "follow later". He will do so only after verification with the doctor.

Trust the judgment of your pharmacist. He knows drugs, their uses and their dangers and believe him when he conforms to the rigid rules of safety that are laid down for your protection.

Speaking of your health — Give a patient an extra few days after surgery before bombarding him with hospital visits.

Japanese Not Against Us

TOKYO — In Japan, so you are assured, "the unsaid is frequently more important than the said." If this is true, there are obvious hazards in interviewing local industrial and political figures. But you've got to trust a man like Peter Okada, who knows two worlds. Peter Okada is a Nisei, or first generation Japanese-American, who grew up in Los Angeles. He came to Tokyo with one of MacArthur's intelligence units, and remained to go into the lumber importing business, in pursuit of which he makes periodic trips to the U. S. Pacific Northwest. Fluent in two languages, Peter Okada can also thread his way among the different mind structures of Orient and Occident. So, when he tells you that Japanese opposition to the U. S. war in South Vietnam is much less today than it was ten months ago, you must believe that you are getting the information from the horse's mouth.

Peter Okada's statement is doubly interesting because it flatly contradicts the theory, advanced by the "experts" in American university and pundit circles, that U. S. policies are losing friends and alienating people in every country of Asia. save Free Chinese Taiwan. Looking through the numerous articles which I tucked away in a holder a month ago before leaving the U. S., I find this pronouncement: "The prevailing Japanese view is that Peking—unprovoked—represents no threat to the peace and security of Asia." This could have been true at the time of Vice President Humphrey's call on Prime Minister Sato in Tokyo last December. But the Japanese, who have been called the cleverest people in the Far East, are certainly not stupid enough to regard the Red Guard purge of "freaks and monsters" (Red Chinese for any oppositionist elements) as a contribution to the "peace and security of Asia."

And Prime Minister Sato himself is now getting a taste of Red Chinese "diplomacy by invective." The Red Chinese Foreign Minister recently called him a "tool" in the hands of the American imperialists. With Red China, you can't win.

The change noticed by Peter Okada was touched upon by Edwin Reschauer, who spoke about it just before relinquishing his post as U. S. Ambassador in Tokyo. "Things have changed a great deal since last summer," so the outgoing ambassador told a reporter for the U. S. armed forces newspaper, the Pacific Stars and Stripes. Said Professor Reschauer, who is returning to his teaching post at Harvard, "There has been a much greater understanding of the problems involved... and that we would not solve the problem if America simply stopped fighting and withdrew. All these things are much more appreciated in Japan than figure for Japanese economic help to overseas nations was $245 million; in 1965 it was $400 million. These figures come to less than one per cent of the Japanese Gross National Product, but they mark a beginning. And in the future the Japanese have pledged to devote at least one per cent of the annual GNP to foreign assistance.

Japanese are also taking part in the work of the Asian Peoples' Anti-Communist League. When Tetsuzo Watanabe, the president of the Japan chapter of the League, signs a statement warning against Red China admission to the UN as a formula to solve current conflicts, it is not the government speaking. But neither is it considered a "dangerous thought." So the next time an American "expert" warns that the U. S. is alienating "all of Asia" by standing up to the Red Chinese, take it with at least two tons of salt.

THE LONGEST touchdown run in football history? Mac Davis, in his engaging "Sports Shorts," avers it was made in 1934 by Lehigh University's Snooks Dowd. Snooks, facing a tough Lafayette line-up, took a pass from center and headed by mistake for his own goal line. Just as he crossed the line, he realized his error, and without stopping, charged off in the opposite direction. He eluded the whole Lafayette team, rang up a victory for Lehigh, and was carried off the field on the shoulders of rapturous supporters—holder of a record for touchdown runs that probably never will be broken: Just under 200 yards!

Peter Okada's statement is doubly interesting because it flatly contradicts the theory, advanced by the "experts" in American university and pundit circles, that U. S. policies are losing friends and alienating people in every country of Asia save Free Chinese Taiwan. Looking through the numerous articles which I tucked away in a holder a month ago before leaving the U. S., I find this pronouncement: "The prevailing Japanese view is that Peking—unless provoked — represents no threat to the peace and security of Asia." This could have been true at the time of Vice President Humphrey's call on Prime Minister Sato in Tokyo last December. But the Japanese, who have been called the cleverest people in the Far East, are certainly not stupid enough to regard the Red Guard purge of "freaks and monsters" (Red Chinese for any oppositionist elements) as a contribution to the "peace and security of Asia." And Prime Minister Sato himself is now getting a taste of Red Chinese "diplomacy by invective." The Red Chinese Foreign Minister recently called him a "tool" in the hands of the American imperialists. With Red China, you can't win.

The change noticed by Peter Okada was touched upon by Edwin Reschauer, who spoke about it just before relinquishing his post as U. S. Ambassador in Tokyo. "Things have changed a great deal since last summer," so the outgoing ambassador told a reporter for the U. S. armed forces newspaper, the Pacific Stars and Stripes. Said Professor Reschauer, who is returning to his teaching post at Harvard, "There has been a much greater understanding of the problems involved... and that we would not solve the problem if America simply stopped fighting and withdrew. All these things are much more appreciated in Japan than they were before. The Japanese are now somewhat less worried that... escalation of the war would lead to a confrontation with Communist China... There is a greatly increased discussion of the contributions Japan could make to stability and prosperity in Southeast Asia in general. This is all a much, much healthier situation and I must say I am very much more relaxed about it."

In a quiet way the Japanese are coming out of their shells and taking a part in economic diplomacy that is designed to restore their lost prestige throughout Southeast Asia. Without going in for economic giveaways, which seem to make the giver into a laughing stock, the Japanese have been tying their assistance to an investment and loan program and also insisting that the goods and services bought with the money shall be of Japanese origin. In 1964 the figure for Japanese economic help to overseas nations was $245 million; in 1965 it was $400 million. These figures come to less than one per cent of the Japanese Gross National Product, but they mark a beginning. And in the future the Japanese have pledged to devote at least one per cent of the annual GNP to foreign assistance.

Japanese are also taking part in the work of the Asian Peoples' Anti-Communist League. When Tetsuzo Watanabe, the president of the Japan chapter of the League, signs a statement warning against Red China admission to the UN as a formula to solve current conflicts, it is not the government speaking. But neither is it considered a "dangerous thought." So the next time an American "expert" warns that the U. S. is alienating "all of Asia" by standing up to the Red Chinese, take it with at least two tons of salt.

THE LONGEST touchdown run in football history? Mac Davis, in his engaging "Sports Shorts," avers it was made in 1934 by Lehigh University's Snooks Dowd. Snooks, facing a tough Lafayette line-up, took a pass from center and headed by mistake for his own goal line. Just as he crossed the line, he realized his error, and without stopping, charged off in the opposite direction. He eluded the whole Lafayette team, rang up a victory for Lehigh, and was carried off the field on the shoulders of rapturous supporters—holder of a record for touchdown runs that probably never will be broken: Just under 200 yards!

Technique Helps Win Revolutions

MIAMI, Fla. (AP) — Fidel Castro says you have to know what you're doing in order to run a successful revolution. His remarks were broadcast recently by Havana Radio.

The Cuban prime minister was asked how it is that armed revolutionary forces in other Latin-American lands have not won any outstanding victories. Castro replied: "Some political leaders don't know anything about technique. They don't know the strategy of armed conflict and worse, they are trying to direct it with the methods of small-time political committees."

Nurses Hear Program By Mr. Beard, Miss Leist

The Pickaway County Registered and Graduate Nurses' Association held their first fall meeting in the home of Mrs. William Clifton, 620 Ridgewood Drive, with 40 members and guests present.

Mr. Charles Beard, administrator, and Miss Ellen Leist, nursing supervisor of Berger Hospital, presented the program, "Hospital Orientation."

Mr. Beard expressed thanks to the medical staff and hospital personnel for their assistance and co-operation and to the public for his reception in this community. He reported that progress in improving many areas of the hospital has been gratifying and expressed hope for the early fulfillment of several other future plans.

Mr. Beard also stated that steady progress is being made toward accreditations and many of the requirements have been met. Some of these accomplishments are the redecoration of rooms and general improvement in hospital equipment, furnishings of a patient's admitting room, improved public relations, improvement of the grounds, walks and ramps, State approval for Medicare, and on Memorial Day, the dedication of a flag and pole presented by the local American Legion Post and Auxiliary.

The administrator announced that a registered medical record librarian has been employed and a full time anesthesiologist recently joined the staff. Serving as members of the local medical staff are Dr. George Hummel, specialist in heart and internal medicine, Dr.

Wayne Silbernagel, specializing in obstetrics and gynecology, and Dr. Thomas Fox, radiologist.

Future planning calls for better parking facilities, improvements in the area of the emergency room and improved financial status, so more attractive salaries can be offered to employees.

Miss Leist stated with an ever increasing work load, it is almost impossible to give adequate patient care and stressed the need for nurses. An in-service care program is being set up to assist any nurses returning to work after a period of inactivity.

Mrs. James Fosnaugh, president, opened the business session with a welcome. She reviewed duties and responsibilities of all officers and committees.

Mrs. Grover Dresbach and Mrs. William Neal were welcomed as new members. Guests present were Mrs. Don Crist, Mrs. Nick Stonerock, Mrs. James Helt, Mrs. Tom Peters, Mrs. Jerry Pritchard, Mrs. Richard Lehman, Mrs. Frederick Ahrens and Mrs. Charles Gearhart.

Mrs. Jack Linton, program chairman, outlined the calendar for the year. A "back to school" theme has been chosen by the committee and discussion topics have been planned to cover all areas of hospital duties. Programs, in form of patient's charts, were distributed to members.

Mrs. Ernest Martin, corresponding secretary, reported that the public relations committee is making an effort to contact all nurses in the community.

Miss Margaret Goode, chairman of the student nurses committee, announced Future Nurse Clubs have been organized in both county and city high schools.

The advisers are Mrs. Linton and Mrs. Charles Wellman of Circleville; Mrs. Martin and Mrs. Jack Goode of Teays Valley; Mrs. James Baehr of Logan Elm. Other advisers will be appointed later.

Mrs. Bryon Gulick reported the finance committee has completed plans for the rummage sale to be held Friday and Saturday. Members were asked to deliver sized clothing and prepared articles to any one on the committee by Thursday. For further information, call GR 4-6197.

Volunteers were obtained for the October Well-Child Clinic and for the Bloodmobile visit in November.

Refreshments were served by the hostess, assisted by Mrs. Wellman, Mrs. Gulick and Mrs. Manuel Sanguly.

Homemakers

Hosted by

Mrs. Dawson

Mrs. Paul I. Dawson, Route 3, Mt. Sterling, was hostess for a meeting of the Deercreek Variety Extension Homemaker's Club.

The president opened the session and showed slides on landscaping to 16 members. A discussion of the coming county events was held.

Pearl Cochenour was appointed to the nominating committee for the election of county officers.

Nurses Hear Program By Mr. Beard, Miss Leist

The Pickaway County Registered and Graduate Nurses' Association held their first fall meeting in the home of Mrs. William Clifton, 620 Ridgewood Drive, with 40 members and guests present.

Mr. Charles Beard, administrator, and Miss Ellen Leist, nursing supervisor of Berger Hospital, presented the program, "Hospital Orientation."

Mr. Beard expressed thanks to the medical staff and hospital personnel for their assistance and co-operation and to the public for his reception in this community. He reported that progress in improving many areas of the hospital has been gratifying and expressed hope for the early fulfillment of several other future plans.

Mr. Beard also stated that steady progress is being made toward accreditations and many of the requirements have been met. Some of these accomplishments are the redecoration of rooms and general improvement in hospital equipment, furnishings of a patient's admitting room, improved public relations, improvement of the grounds, walks and ramps, State approval for Medicare, and on Memorial Day, the dedication of a flag and pole presented by the local American Legion Post and Auxiliary.

The administrator announced that a registered medical record librarian has been employed and a full time anesthesiologist recently joined the staff. Serving as members of the local medical staff are Dr. George Hummel, specialist in heart and internal medicine, Dr.

Wayne Silbernagle, specializing in obstetrics and gynecology, and Dr. Thomas Fox, radiologist.

Future planning calls for better parking facilities, improvements in the area of the emergency room and improved financial status, so more attractive salaries can be offered to employees.

Miss Leist stated with an ever increasing work load, it is almost impossible to give adequate patient care and stressed the need for nurses. An in-service care program is being set up to assist any nurses returning to work after a period of inactivity.

Mrs. James Fosnaugh, president, opened the business session with a welcome. She reviewed duties and responsibilities of all officers and committees.

Mrs. Grover Dresbach and Mrs. William Neal were welcomed as new members. Guests present were Mrs. Don Crist, Mrs. Nick Stonerock, Mrs. James Helt, Mrs. Tom Peters, Mrs. Jerry Pritchard, Mrs. Richard Lehman, Mrs. Frederick Ahrens and Mrs. Charles Gearhart.

Mrs. Jack Linton, program chairman, outlined the calendar for the year. A "back to school" theme has been chosen by the committee and discussion topics have been planned to cover all areas of hospital duties. Programs, in form of patient's charts, were distributed to members.

Mrs. Ernest Martin, corresponding secretary, reported that the public relations committee is making an effort to contact all nurses in the community.

Miss Margaret Goode, chairman of the student nurses committee, announced Future Nurse Clubs have been organized in both county and city high schools.

The advisers are Mrs. Linton and Mrs. Charles Wellman of Circleville; Mrs. Martin and Mrs. Jack Goode of Teays Valley; Mrs. James Baehr of Logan Elm. Other advisers will be appointed later.

Mrs. Bryon Gulick reported the finance committee has completed plans for the rummage sale to be held Friday and Saturday. Members were asked to deliver sized clothing and prepared articles to any one on the committee by Thursday. For further information, call GR 4-6197.

Volunteers were obtained for the October Well-Child Clinic and for the Bloodmobile visit in November.

Refreshments were served by the hostess, assisted by Mrs. Wellman, Mrs. Gulick and Mrs. Manuel Sanguily.

Pearl Cochenour was appointed to the nominating committee for the election of county officers.

Refreshments were served after the meeting was adjourned.

The next meeting will be Oct. 26 in the home of Mrs. Della Lemmings, Williamsport.

Dear Abby:

By Abigail Van Buren

'Sonny' Can't Face Marriage

DEAR ABBY: Everyone tells me how lucky I am to have this jewel.

Now, here's the rub: Bruce (I'll call him) was a bachelor, living with his mother when I married him. I agreed to keep my job until we could afford a nice home. Now, a year later, I have bought all the groceries and paid the rent. Bruce doesn't have one suit of clothes at our apartment. He shaves and showers at his mother's, keeps everything there except his socks and underwear. He even gets his mail there.

I have never seen a bank statement a paycheck or a canceled check. All his personal papers and records are locked up in a strong box at his mother's. When I mention these things to him he just smiles. If I pursue it further he walks away and ignores me. The newspaper is the one thing he buys and he reads your column.

Officer Seeks Girl's Killer

JEFFERSON, Ohio (AP) — Sheriff's deputies were looking Tuesday for a man described as a drifter in connection with the July 22 murder of federal census taker.

Deputies want to question the man in the stabbing death of Miss Linda Ann Moor, 20, whose fully clad body was found July 23.

Detectives reported that the man they are seeking had worked with Miss Moore in New York, before the girl moved to Warren to work for the U.S. Department of Commerce. She had been working in the Warren-Ashtabula area on a survey of farm employment.

The man had been reported missing by his mother.

Monday Club Hears Program By Mrs. Will

Mrs. Clark Will was guest speaker when the Monday Club met this week in the Lutheran Christian Education Building.

Mrs. Will's program was based on "Music in America Today." Mrs. Ralph Dunkel, president, presided at the business session.

The speaker stated that all of the fine arts follow the same general pattern of development, yielding to the influence of political, economic and social currents. She said that when the United States emerged as a strong nation during the early part of the 19th century, our music began to be less patterned after European and English composers and took on a nationalistic cadence.

Mrs. Will also said that Dvorak's New World Symphony used basic Negro melodies and other compositions of his were based on Indian melodies. Following his lead were many later writers, notably, MacDowell, Cadman, Herbert, Goldmark, Powell and Henry Gilbert. Modern composers Aaron Copland, Leonard Bernstein, Roy Harris, Howard Hanson and George Gershwin, through the omnipresent influence of radio and television have become household names. Other familiar names are Cage, Stockhausen, Paik and Foss.

"Concerts have become an integral part of the American summer scene," she stated "with music festivals occurring all over the United States. She definitely thinks a keener appreciation of good music is growing throughout America.

Beta Rho Chapter Slated To Meet

Meeting Scheduled

The Child Conservation League will meet 1 p. m. Tuesday in the home of Mrs. F. O. Patrick 315 Wood Lane.

Members are asked to bring clean clothes for the clothing center.

No Grazing Provision Ends Oct. 1

Farmers who diverted acreage under the 1966 feed grain and wheat programs will soon be able to graze this land without losing program benefits, Paul T. Moore, chairman of the Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Pickaway County Committee has announced.

The starting date for such grazing will be Oct. 1. It marks the end of the 6-month period during which the no-grazing provision was in effect under the diversion programs.

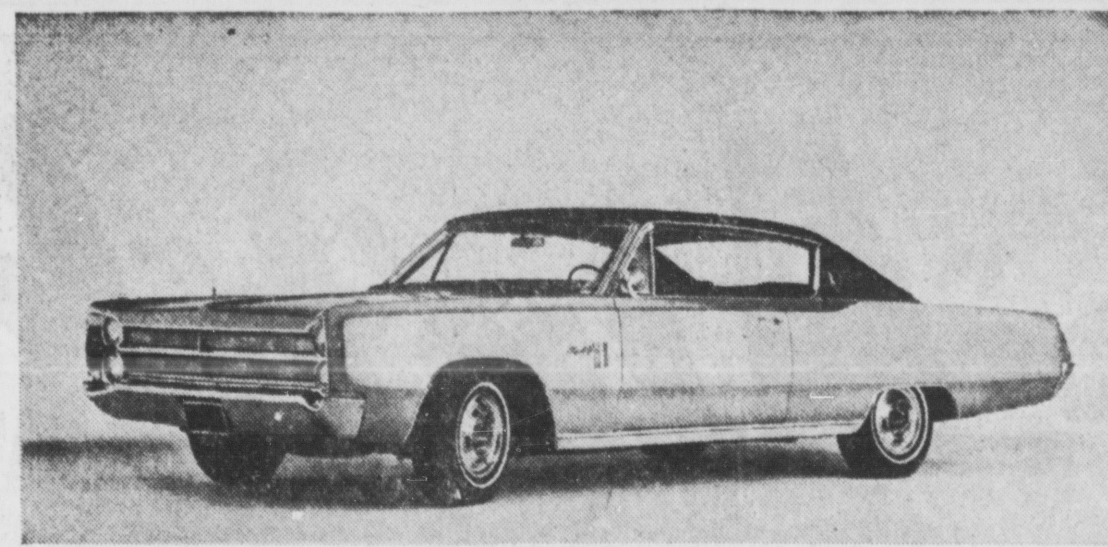

The chairman stressed, however, that this program relaxation regarding use of the acreage applies only to grazing the acres diverted from commodity production. Hay on such acreages still may not be harvested.

Land diverted under the Conservation Reserve Programs may not be grazed or harvested through the whole year.

Pickaway County farms participating in the 1966 commodity diversion programs number about 788.

Johnson Ally Beats Critic in Primary

NEW YORK (AP) — Rep. Leonard Farbstien, who keyed his campaign on support for President Johnson's Viet Nam policy, has scored a narrow victory over a vigorous administration critic in a special Democratic primary.

The margin in Tuesday's 19th Congressional District runoff primary was only 929 votes out of more than 33,000 cast.

Farbstien, 63, a five-term congressman who has made a specialty in recent years of winning by close elections, polled 17,089 votes in the unofficial tally.

His opponent, City Councilman Theodore S. Weiss, 39, a reform-wing Democrat, had 16,151 votes.

Farbstien was backed by the regular Democratic organization in Manhattan — Tammany Hall.

The contest was the second for Farbstien and Weiss, who had battled in the regular June 28 primary. Weiss had won by 61 votes in the unofficial tally, but a recount put Farbstien ahead by 151 votes.

A court ordered a replay when it found more than 1,100 invalid votes among 35,000 cast.

Since the 19th District is heavily Democratic, Farbstien was virtually assured of victory at the Nov. 8 election. His opponents will be Henry Del Rosso, Candidate of both the Republican and Conservative parties, and Elaine Morrison, the Liberal party candidate.

Extradition Case Reset for Woods

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — Extradition hearing for former Cleveland nursing home operator Eugene H. Woods has been set for Oct. 10, it was learned Tuesday.

A Monday hearing had been scheduled for Woods, 43, who is wanted in Cleveland on charges of bilking a World War I veteran out of his $15,000 life savings.

Feds Charge GE Fixes Bulb Prices

NEW YORK (AP) — The Justice Department has filed a federal court antitrust suit accusing the General Electric Co. of fixing the prices of light bulbs.

The government contended in its action that the company maintained bulb prices at "artificially high levels" through agency agreements with its wholesalers and retailers.

Responding to Tuesday's suit, the company commented in a statement that it was "convinced that this business practice is not only legal but that it has served the public well."

General Electric's light bulb sales were more than $173 million in 1963, or about 50 per cent of the industry total, according to the complaint.

The suit said GE sells most of its bulbs to about 240,000 wholesalers and retailers on a consignment basis, with the bulbs remaining the property of the manufacturer until sold to users or small retailers.

Thus, the government charged, agency wholesalers and retailers have been prevented from selling the bulbs at "prices and firms of their own choice."

When I mention these things to him he just smiles. If I pursue it further he walks away and ignores me. The newspaper is the one thing he buys and he reads your column so please print this and tell me what to do.

DEAR ABBY: Bewildered: Did you MARRY this little boy or adopt him? Tell your good-natured "jewel" that he is about to be polished off unless he faces the responsibilities of marriage like a man. And if he doesn't send his socks and underwear over to his mother's, and add his walking papers to the rest of his "records."

DEAR ABBY: I know a girl who is very nice, but she sure could use some tips concerning the betterment of her looks. She wears no make-up of any kind and she doesn't do a thing with her hair. It is an absolute mess. She probably wonders why she doesn't appeal to any of the guys.

My problem is how to become friendlier with her so I can help her improve her looks without her thinking I want to get closer to her because of her money and new car. I just can't sit by and watch her miss out on all the fun.

DEAR ABBY: Tell her, in a nice way. If she resents it, your friendship is over. If not, you're in business.

DEAR ABBY: I admire parents who take an interest in their children's school work, but we have a situation in our school which I think needs looking into. There is a family of children whose parents are educated and very smart, so if one of their children has to write a theme or give a speech he was told to write himself, his parents help him with it to the extent of doing the whole thing.

Now I happen to know this is so because my son pals with their son, who won a speech contest by giving an "original" speech which his father wrote for him. I think this is unfair to the other children who go by the rules. I wish you would mention this in your column. Maybe the guilty parents will see it and take the hint.

BURNED UP: DEAR BURNED UP: Not only is it unfair to the other children, it is unfair to their own child. The real "prize" is in learning—not in winning.

NEW YORK (AP) — The season's first casualty — ABC's "Tammy Grimes Show" — was not given even a month in which to build a following.

The network will replace the Thursday night comedy Oct. 6 with an evening edition of its daytime "Dating Game."

The comedy series, produced by William Dozier of "Batman" fame, premiered Sept. 8 and received generally dismal critical notices. The last show will be Thursday night. That is an extremely short run for a prime-time network show. They usually are permitted to stagger along for at least 13 weeks, if only for financial reasons.

NBC gave two game shows almost three months to build audiences before it gave them up. "Chain Letter" with Jan Murray and "Showdown" with Joe Pyne will quietly disappear Oct. 14, and the following Monday will be replaced by "The Pat Boone Show," a musical program with the singing star, and a game show called "Hollywood Squares."

ABC has been enchanted with both "Dating Game" and its sister, "Newlywed Game." The former, in a short time, has turned into a genuine daytime hit. The latter is battling for rating supremacy with CBS' "Password," long at the top of the daytime popularity list along with the perennially popular "As the World Turns," a soap opera.

"CBS Reports" Tuesday night was a grim summary of opinion and emotion which has grown up around the Negro struggle during the summer.

The title — "Black Power — White Backlash" — described the content of the program. Mike Wallace, narrator and frequent interviewer of black and white leaders, called the past months "a summer of revelation for the white man," in showing him how he really felt about the black man. The program was most impressive and frightening when it focused on some bitter Negro leaders talking of violence and rebellion, and on some equally bitter whites.

Summer in Mobile is a time when the fishing is easy. Fish jump out of Mobile Bay—by the thousands.

WARING WELL—Orchestra leader Fred Waring (left) is congratulated by orchestra leader Sammy Kaye on his 50th anniversary in show business. The occasion was a dinner in the Pennsylvania's maestro's honor in New York.

TODAY In History

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Today is Wednesday, Sept. 28, the 271st day of 1966. There are 94 days left in the year.

Today's highlight in history. On this date in 1924, two Army Air Service planes landed in Seattle, completing the first around-the-world flight. The two planes had started out from Seattle April 6.

On this date: In 1850, Congress voted to give extra pay to Army officers serving in the far countries of Oregon and California.

In 1878, the first Chinese resident ambassador to the United States was received in Washington.

In 1946, King George of Greece returned to his throne after an exile of more than five years.

In 1958, France voted for the constitution of Premier Charles de Gaulle and established the Fifth Republic of France.

Ten years ago—West German Chancellor Konrad Adenauer and French Premier Guy Mollet said they had reached final agreement on a treaty under which France would return the Saar territory to Germany.

Five years ago—A revolt led by Syrian army officers against Egyptian domination of the Syrian region of the United Arab Republic began in Damascus.

One year ago—Ten major nations announced an agreement on an initial step toward a world conference on the possible revision of the international monetary system.

Not at Rush Hour

PITTSBURGH (AP)—A Pittsburgh bus driver pulled up to a stop during an evening rush hour, opened the door and told the oncoming passenger:

"You can't get on here with that."

"I've done it before," came the reply from the passenger, a young boy who climbed aboard and gingerly threaded his vaulting pole down the crowded aisle.

Possible Connection

FRANKFORT, Ky. (AP) — Public Safety Commissioner Glenn Lovern says Kentucky's increasing crime rate may be an indirect factor in the state's rising traffic fatality rate. It diverts State Police from their primary highway duties, he said.

State Sweepstakes Faces Hurdle

CONCORD, N.H. (AP) — New Hampshire's sweepstakes, not quite the winner some had hoped, faces a second hurdle.

SUSPICIOUS — Retired four-star Gen. Nathan F. Twining, former Air Force chief of staff, wants Congress to find out if the United States is phasing out its strategic bombers under some secret agreement with Russia. In a new book, Twining wrote "the very rapid phase-out of the B52s and B58s should raise some serious questions from the U.S. Congress."

While other states are considering legalizing a sweeps, New Hampshire voters decide Nov. 8 if tickets may continue to be sold in their communities.

Even its most vocal opponents believe the sweeps will win.

"I'd be amazed if it didn't," said Richard Plumer, editor of the University of New Hampshire alumni magazine and a key member of the "Committee of 100" which campaigned against the lottery before the original referendum in 1964. It passed then by a 3 to 1 margin.

"The opposition is not organized to any degree that I know of," added Plumer, "and there's no plan to gain a repeal — that's not realistic at this point. I still don't feel the sweepstakes is doing the job."

"It's bringing in a few million dollars that we wouldn't have otherwise — but, because of it, perhaps genuine tax reform is being put off."

Edward J. Powers, former

FBI agent who is executive director of the sweepstakes, said he would ask the 1967 Legislature to authorize additional sales outlets in the state and provide more money for advertising and promotion.

The sweeps will come closer to reaching its financial potential, he said, "if we can merchandise our product and make it available on a national market."

The 1967 sweepstakes is off to a poor start. Sales during the first few weeks are more than $12,000 behind the 1966 lottery.

At $3 apiece, tickets worth $3.86 million were sold on the 1966 sweepstakes, a drop from the $3.9 million sold on the 1965 lottery. The first year's lottery, in 1964, had sales of $5.73 million.

The profits from the sweepstakes are sent to local school districts. The goal is to help relieve property taxes.

The state has no broad-based income or sales tax — the only one in the union which has not at least initiated legal action toward such a tax.

A source close to the state Tax Commission admitted that the sweepstakes "hasn't done a great deal, but any source of revenue is a help."

"The sweeps isn't too reliable as a source of income. If times are good, people will take a chance and buy a ticket. But it isn't anything like a tax which people must pay," the source said.

"The government must have a base from which it can estimate what it is going to get in revenue. This is very definitely lacking in the sweepstakes."

Trading Stamps Spur Drinkers

BARNESLEY, England (AP) — The Alhambra Tavern has abandoned a project to pass out trading stamps for drinks.

"The rush is too hot for us to handle," Les Simpson, the pub keeper, said Monday.

Simpson started the scheme with a fanfare Sunday, promising one trading stamp for each drink bought — whether a pit of bee or a short whiskey.

Mexicans Refuse Food For Starving Indians

EDITOR'S NOTE—The Tarahumara Indians of Mexico are the center of controversy. Louisiana citizens have sent relief supplies to them, based on reports the Indians are starving. The Mexican government, refusing entry to 10 carloads of the supplies, says the reports are exaggerated. El Paso, Tex., Times reporter Bruce Bissonette visited some of the Indians. Here is his story

By BRUCE BISSONETTE
El Paso Times Writer

CREEL, Chihuahua, Mexico (AP) — Indians are suffering from starvation in Chihuahua. A child or two dies each day.

With a show-me attitude about the Mexican government denials of starvation among the Tarahumara Indians of Chihuahua, we flew Sunday into the vast stretches of the Barranca del Cobre canyons of the Sierra Madre Mountains. We went to the villages of Sisoguichi and Creel.

We visited with the Jesuit priests who devote their lives to the betterment of these Indians.

Among them is Father Luis G. Verplancken—at whose request Louisiana citizens generously donated 10 railroad carloads of food, tools, medical supplies and agricultural equipment for the Indians.

But the Mexican government has refused to grant permission for the shipment to enter Mexico.

from El Paso, Tex., where the cars have been sitting on a siding since Saturday.

Father Verplancken, kind and soft-spoken, was emphatic in his denial of reports that from 100-200 Indians a day are dying of starvation.

He was just as emphatic, however, in declaring that a "terrible situation exists" among 50,000 Indians who live in the rugged wilderness.

He said the current situation is "no different than it has been in other years." Whenever a drought occurs the Indians are hard pressed for seed the following year and are also short of food themselves, Father Verplancken said.

"Last year," he said, "we had a drought and the crops were almost nonexistent. This year we had an abundance of rain, in fact, too much and the crops which were already short planted because of a lack of seed, rotted in the fields."

Most of the Indians live in soot-blackened caves. The caves are about 25 feet in diameter and about the same height, but without a roof.

The priest started his campaign for aid to the Tarahumara last August when he visited several Louisiana citizens. Mentioned to a friend and fellow priest that help is always welcomed and needed.

Feds Oppose Hoffa's Plea

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Justice Department says Teamsters Union President James R. Hoffa's constitutional rights were not violated during his 1964 trial for trying to bribe a jury.

Hoffa was sentenced to eight years in prison and fined $10,000 after he was found guilty in Chattanooga, Tenn., of trying to bribe the jury in his 1962 trial on conspiracy charges.

Hoffa contends his constitutional rights to due process of law were violated by testimony of Edward G. Partin, an official of Teamsters Union Local 5 at Baton Rouge, La. Hoffa claims Partin invaded his privacy, tried to get privileged information and then was paid to tell government agents what he had heard.

In a brief filed Monday at the Supreme Court, the Justice Department denied any violation of Hoffa's rights, said Partin's evidence was admitted properly at the trial and "constituted the only practical means of preserving the integrity of an ongoing federal trial which was being subjected to sweeping attack by corrupt influences."

Mexicans Refuse Food For Starving Indians

EDITOR'S NOTE—The Tarahumara Indians of Mexico are the center of controversy. Louisiana citizens have sent relief supplies to them, based on reports the Indians are starving. The Mexican government, refusing entry to 10 carloads of the supplies, says the reports are exaggerated. El Paso, Tex., Times reporter Bruce Bissonette visited some of the Indians. Here is his story.

By BRUCE BISSONETTE
El Paso Times Writer

CREEL, Chihuahua, Mexico (AP) — Indians are suffering from starvation in Chihuahua. A child or two dies each day.

With a show-me attitude about the Mexican government denials of starvation among the Tarahumara Indians of Chihuahua, we flew Sunday into the vast stretches of the Barranca del Cobre canyons of the Sierra Madre Mountains. We went to the villages of Sisoguichi and Creel.

We visited with the Jesuit priests who devote their lives to the betterment of these Indians. Among them is Father Luis G. Verplancken—at whose request Louisiana citizens generously donated 10 railroad carloads of food, tools, medical supplies and agricultural equipment for the Indians.

But the Mexican government has refused to grant permission for the shipment to enter Mexico.

co from El Paso, Tex., where the cars have been sitting on a siding since Saturday.

Father Verplancken, kind and soft-spoken, was emphatic in his denial of reports that from 100-200 Indians a day are dying of starvation.

He was just as emphatic, however, in declaring that a "terrible situation exists" among 50,000 Indians who live in the rugged wilderness.

He said the current situation is "no different than it has been in other years." Whenever a drought occurs the Indians are hard pressed for seed the following year and are also short of food themselves, Father Verplancken said.

"Last year," he said, "we had a drought and the crops were almost nonexistent. This year we had an abundance of rain, in fact, too much and the crops which were already short planted because of a lack of seed, rotted in the fields."

Most of the Indians live in soot-blackened caves. The caves are about 25 feet in diameter and about the same height, but without a roof.

The priest started his campaign for aid to the Tarahumara last August when he visited several Louisiana citizens. Mentioned to a friend and fellow priest that help is always welcomed and needed.

Feds Oppose Hoffa's Plea

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Justice Department says Teamsters Union President James R. Hoffa's constitutional rights were not violated during his 1964 trial for trying to bribe a jury.

Hoffa was sentenced to eight years in prison and fined $10,000 after he was found guilty in Chattanooga, Tenn., of trying to bribe the jury in his 1962 trial on conspiracy charges.

Hoffa contends his constitutional rights to due process of law were violated by testimony of Edward G. Partin, an official of Teamsters Union Local 5 at Baton Rouge, La. Hoffa claims Partin invaded his privacy, tried to get privileged information and then was paid to tell government agents what he had heard.

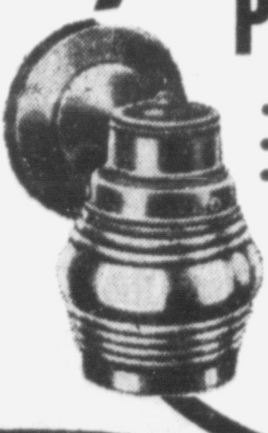

In a brief filed Monday at the Supreme Court, the Justice Department denied any violation of Hoffa's rights, said Partin's evidence was admitted properly at the trial and "constituted the only practical means of preserving the integrity of an ongoing federal trial which was being subjected to sweeping attack by corrupt influences."

Airman Still Waiting for LBJ's Signature

MIDDLETOWN, Ohio (AP)—Friday can't come soon enough for an Ohio Airman who is separated from his family because of an immigration law.

President Johnson is expected to sign a bill then that will permit Sgt. Robert Snyder of Middletown to bring his adopted Greek daughter, Irene, 1, into the United States.

The sergeant's mother, Mrs. Minnie Pyle, said Tuesday Snyder's English-born wife, June, and Irene, are presently living in England "until things are straightened up."

Snyder, meanwhile, is stationed at McGuire Air Force Base in New Jersey, living with his son Vincent Roy, 9.

Snyder and his wife adopted Irene last summer from a poor Greek family. He was not allowed to bring Irene into this country because of immigration laws prohibiting adopted foreign children, whose natural parents are still living, to enter the U.S. unless they have lived with their American parents at least two years.

For a time Mrs. Snyder and Irene lived in Fort Erie, Ontario, just across the U.S. border from Buffalo, N. Y. They went to England Sept. 1.

Mrs. Pyle said, "there are so many papers to take care of, but he's not giving up. He still hopes to get his family together in the United States."

Rep. Rodney Love and Sen. Frank Lausche, Ohio Democrats got Congress to approve the "Irene Snyder Bill," and Love said the President is expected to sign it Friday.

Valenti Benefits Himself by Talking with Movie People

By BOB THOMAS
AP Movie-Television Writer
HOLLYWOOD (AP) — When

Jack Valenti was named president of the Motion Picture Producers Association April 26, a few industry figures snifted, "What does he know about the picture business?"

At that time, Valenti knew little more about films than did predecessors Will Hays and Eric Johnston when they also were plucked from the political arena to head the film industry. The White House aide to President Johnson had one brush with the business: to earn money for college, he sold popcorn and took tickets at Houston's Irish Theater.

As his longtime Houston friends may have expected, Valenti gave himself a quick and thorough education in matters cinematic. His course has included everything from talking techniques with Shirley MacLaine to reading Pauline Kael's "I Lost It At the Movies."

The 44-year-old son of Italian immigrants was in town to unveil the industry's new, simplified self-censorship code and to continue his extensive dialogue with the people who make movies. He paused between engagements to discuss his experience thus far in the film business. "I find it very important to talk to as many people in the film business as I can," he said as he sipped coffee in his hotel suite. "I had 100 meetings with every segment of the business before we arrived at our new code."

"In New York I sat down with Elia Kazan, Sidney Lumet, Joseph Mankiewicz, Alan Pakula and Walter Wanger and we talked for three hours. These are tough men, but I think they went away saying, 'This guy is going to try to make things better.'"

"This morning I'm going to visit Sam Goldwyn, a founder of the association and a man whose wisdom I could benefit from. I went to George Hamilton's party for Lynda Bird and I had some illuminating conversations. I found Robert Mitchum to be a very intelligent, thoughtful man. I also had some good talks with Rex Harrison, Glenn Ford and Anthony Newley.

"Some people say I'm wasting my time talking to so many people. I don't think so. I'm setting up a dialogue with the creators who make the movies, and they are much more important than any balance sheets."

Valenti listens during these pounds on his three main objectives: 1. To bring young talent into the industry — "By 1980, our population between the ages of 10 and 25 will double to 60 million; we must prepare for that"; 2. To exhort the industry to lift its level of excellence — "I have no authority to do so, but I hope to be a gadfly, a cajoler, an importuner for better quality in films"; 3. To live up to the code "with honesty and without hypocrisy."

CLEVELAND (AP)—With his left shoulder muscles wired for sound and a cram course in Russian under his belt, Prof. James B. Reswick of Case Institute of Technology set off a month ago for a lecture tour of Eastern Europe and the Soviet Union.

The wires in his shoulder, which were connected to two tin FM radio transmitters glued to his skin, were part of a demonstration of techniques developed at Case that he went to Russia to explain.

Prof. Reswick is director of the Design Center at Case, where engineers produce the transmitters and are studying their use in direct human control of machines.

The idea is that muscle nerve signals picked up by the wires in the muscle can be used to control such things as powered artificial limbs—or even spacecraft.

Prof. Reswick was invited to describe the work at Case to Soviet scientists and engineers by Prof. Boris Naumov, secretary of the committee on automatic control of the Soviet Academy of Science.

Monday back from his four-week tour, Prof. Reswick recounted his experiences at a Design Center faculty meeting. At his first stop, in Dubrov-

Police Inspector Kisses Recruit

She is tall and blonde and her father is Inspector Michael J. Loneragan.

Virginia was among 595 recruits, including 14 other women, joining New York City's force.

nik, Yugoslavia, he said, he met a British colleague who was demonstrating a new, artificial hand. They got together and soon had the hand operating on signals from Prof. Reswick's shoulder muscle.

"It was quite remarkable," the engineer noted. "Just by sitting there thinking, I could open and close that hand. I wasn't aware of anything going on in my shoulder. I'd just think 'Open hand' and it would open."

The demonstration proved rather startling to waiters in a country inn where they tried it later, he said.

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Three of the state's top Democrats plan to attend the Democratic $50-a-plate fund raising dinner here Oct. 8, but one, Sen. Frank J. Lausche, will not be there.

Lausche said a previous engagement will prevent his attendance.

The banquet will be held in the Lausche Building at the Ohio State Fairgrounds.

Church Picks Four Ohioans as Managers

DALLAS, TEX. (AP)—The United Christian Missionary Society, largest international agency of Christian Churches (Disciples of Christ), has elected new members of its board of managers including four for Ohio.

Donavon R. Campbell of Columbus was named for a term expiring in 1967, and Colbert S. ner, U. S. Sen. Robert Kennedy of New York will be the banquet speaker.

Cartwright of Youngstown, Mrs. Ronald R. Reed of Warren, and Claude F. Wess of Cleveland were elected for terms expiring in 1969.

An Ohioan, Albrt M. Pennybacker of Cleveland, is chairman of the board and delivered the missionary society's annual report at the convention's annual assembly Monday.

In other action at the assembly, the international convention ratified election of Edwin Bobbitt, Middletown, Ohio, as a member of the Disciples' fundraising agency, Unified Promotion.

The National Christian Missionary Convention, a Negro fellowship organization affiliated with the international convention, named Donald Gibbs, Cincinnati; Eugene Patterson, Youngstown, and Eugene W. James Sr., Warren, Ohio, among eight members of its national board for three-year terms.

Wired Professor Shows His Transmitter to Soviet

CLEVELAND (AP)—With his left shoulder muscles wired for sound and a cram course in Russian under his belt, Prof. James B. Reswick of Case Institute of Technology set off a month ago for a lecture tour of Eastern Europe and the Soviet Union.

The wires in his shoulder, which were connected to two tin FM radio transmitters glued to his skin, were part of a demonstration of techniques developed at Case that he went to Russia to explain.

Prof. Reswick is director of the Design Center at Case, where engineers produce the transmitters and are studying their use in direct human control of machines.

The idea is that muscle nerve signals picked up by the wires in the muscle can be used to control such things as powered artificial limbs or even spacecraft.

Prof. Reswick was invited to describe the work at Case to Soviet scientists and engineers by Prof. Boris Naumov, secretary of the committee on automatic control of the Soviet Academy of Science.

Monday back from his four-week tour, Prof. Reswick recounted his experiences at a Design Center faculty meeting.

At his first stop, in Dubrovnik, Yugoslavia, he said, he met a British colleague who was demonstrating a new, artificial hand. They got together and soon had the hand operating on signals from Prof. Reswick's shoulder muscle.

"It was quite remarkable," the engineer noted. "Just by sitting there thinking, I could open and close that hand. I wasn't aware of anything going on in my shoulder. I'd just think 'Open hand' and it would open."

The demonstration proved rather startling to waiters in a country inn where they tried it later, he said.

Police Inspector Kisses Recruit

NEW YORK (AP)—Not every new police recruit gets a kiss from an inspector after taking the departmental oath. Virginia Loneragan did, though.

She is tall and blonde and her father is Inspector Michael J. Loneragan.

Virginia was among 595 recruits, including 14 other women, joining New York City's force.

Lausche Nixes Kennedy Dinner

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Three of the state's top Democrats plan to attend the Democratic $50-a-plate fund raising dinner here Oct. 8, but one, Sen. Frank J. Lausche, will not be there.

Lausche said a previous engagement will prevent his attendance.

The banquet will be held in the Lausche Building at the Ohio State Fairgrounds.

U. S. Sen. Stephen M. Young, U. S. Rep. Robert M. Sweeney, and former Ohio Gov. Michael V. DiSalle said they had agreed to pick up tickets for the dinner.

Saxbe's Use Of Postage Was Error

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—The attorney general's office Tuesday described as "a serious mistake" the mailing of Atty. Gen. William B. Saxbe's campaign literature with state postage.

Saxbe was out of town, and not available for comment, but aides confirmed that a letter mailed to the Youngstown Vindicator on behalf of Saxbe's reelection campaign, was stamped with his office postage meter.

The letter was a news release announcing the selection of Sheriff Ray T. Davis of Youngstown as Saxbe's campaign manager in that area. It could not be determined immediately if any other Saxbe campaign material was mailed at the state expense.

Fred G. Reiners, Saxbe's chief counsel, described the incident as "a serious mistake" and added: "We don't know how it happened. But it certainly will not happen again."

Saxbe repeatedly has accused his opponent in the November election, U. S. Rep. Robert E. Sweeney, of using his congressional franking privilege to mail campaign material.

Mishaps Kill Military Men

WASHINGTON (AP) — Almost 1,100 American servicemen have died in Viet Nam untouched by enemy fire.

This little-known statistic of the war is reflected under what the Pentagon describes as "casualties not the result of actions by hostile forces."

From Jan. 1, 1961, through last Sept. 17, there were 1,098 victims listed in this category. Helicopter accidents took 217 lives, fixed-wing plane accidents another 138 and 743 died from other causes not directly related to combat.

Of 385 deaths due to nonhostile causes between last January and last June, 143 were blamed on firearms accidents, aircraft mishaps took 132 lives, automotive accidents 45, drownings 27, sickness 7 and "various causes" 31.

U.S. combat deaths in Viet Nam from Jan. 1, 1961, through last Sept. 17 total 5,160.

World Grows Anxious Over China's Turmoil

By WILLIAM L. RYAN
AP Special Correspondent

Is Red China, increasingly isolated from the rest of the world, preparing for a major war?

The turmoil in that vast country and what it might mean to world peace are arousing concern around the world.

The worry is not confined to non-Communist nations. A round of visits by Soviet Communist party chief Leonid I. Brezhnev to Yugoslavia, Bulgaria and Hungary is widely viewed as indicating anxiety about China's intentions.

The official Yugoslav radio pointed out that Peking "no longer recognizes the Geneva agreements" of 1954 on Viet Nam, on which it had previously insisted doggedly. This, it said, added to a "mistrust of Peking (which) is growing at a time when essential world problems are at stake. How this increases the disquiet is obvious."

Worry is expressed in some quarters that progressive escalation of the Viet Nam war will reach a point where Red China will intervene directly, perhaps out of desperation to prevent negotiations.

What are the chances of Red China risking a big war?

The current uproar in China, the widespread purge, the struggle for power, the wild rampages of the officially inspired Red Guards and the predominance of a military clique provide plenty of cause for anxiety. Domestic Peking broadcasts add to this concern.

Despite all the portents, a note of caution remains. Peking propaganda also underscores Mao's injunction that "the Red army is not only for purposes of fighting a war." It is needed on the home front, notably in production.

There has been a spate of Red Guard attacks on party committee and functionaries. In 20 of China's 27 provinces and in many cities party headquarters have been attacked, leaders humiliated. All this signifies widespread disarray amid a struggle for power. There are reports from many areas of resistance to the cultural revolution, even of fighting.

Would Peking's leaders in such circumstances invite major war? It is always possible desperation could impel a shaky leadership to take enormous risks. On the whole, however, China presents a picture of a nation gripped by violent, foreign-hating nationalism but unprepared to face awesome U.S. power.

Peking's warlike noises seem to stem from official conviction that the United States plans war on China. Evidently it sees the escalation of the Vietnamese war as evidence of this. Peking seems to fear war, but not yet to invite it.

But from all appearances, it will be a long time before the current upheaval has run its course and China's internal situation simmers down.

Newborn Baby Clings to Life, But War Makes No Allowances

By PETER ARNETT
LINH HOI, Viet Nam (AP)—This is the way life goes in a village caught in the vortex of war.

Artillery shells burst among the flimsy thatched huts of Linh Hoi. Napalm seared through coconut trees and corn.

Far below the splintering shrapnel, in a deep earth bunker, the sounds of a newborn baby's first cries briefly drowned out the holocaust overhead.

The aged village midwives ceremoniously dug a hole for the placenta, nodding to each other wisely. This baby would live long. Wasn't a child's life span measured by the depth that his placenta is buried? And they already were 30 feet below ground.

The hours moved on. In normal times, the good spirits might well take note and coax the newborn child to manhood through the barriers of disease and malnutrition that kill half the peasant Vietnamese before puberty.

But these were not normal times. War had become part of the disease of Viet Nam. With in 24 hours the sleeping baby awaked and choked on smoke seeping down in the bunker. The midwives, the neighbors and the visitors who had crowded into the bunker when the artillery and aircraft first came over, swarmed out into the bright light above.

Men of the U.S. 1st Cavalry Division (Airmobile) had swept through the village once without locating a soul. Now they were systematically burning the houses to the ground. They were amazed as hundreds of women, children and old men poured from the ground.

Much later that day Lt. Jasper Campesi of Chicago, leading his platoon around the edge of Linh Hoi, saw the pair. The mother, probably 18 years old, was "kinda holding herself in," said Campesi.

An old man, a conical straw hat perched on his head, was tenderly clutching the naked baby. Its tiny fists were clenched instinctively over its eyes to close out the light.

Campesi beckoned to one of his men. The put the young mother in a string hammock and tied it under a long bamboo pole. They placed the baby on her stomach, threw a mat over the pole to shut out the sun, and moved off across the paddy-fields to where the helicopters were coming. It was a crude but effective ambulance.

By the time Campesi arrived, the helicopters had stopped coming in. There were just too many people to evacuate, and there was no question that they were all Viet Cong sympathizers. So why move them? Linh Hoi was in one of the tiny valleys streaking into the foothills along the central Vietnamese coast. Leave the people where they were: that was the decision.

"But we can't leave here," said Campesi, looking down at the mother lying on the dry paddyfield dike. "Her belly looks split open. She needs medical attention."

The mother was pulling at Campesi's trouser leg. The fear had left her eyes. She pointed back at her smoldering village, and patted the bamboo pole beside her.

"Take me back," she was saying. The little old man had picked up the pink-skinned baby and was walking away. Campesi and another soldier hoisted the pole, with the mother slung underneath, to their shoulders.

The fate of the baby was now in the hands of the spirits. Campesi shook his head.

"This place gets me down, let's move on," he called to his platoon.

Morse Hopes Republicans Get Elected

DAYTON, Ohio (AP)—Democratic Sen. Wayne Morse expressed hope Tuesday that Americans would elect Republicans this fall to indicate their dissatisfaction with the Viet Nam war.

Morse, from Oregon, met newsmen and spoke at the fall convocation of Wilberforce College near here.

Asked to comment on Republican claims they may pick up 30 to 40 congressional seats in the Nov. 8 elections because of a decline in President Johnson's popularity in part due to Viet Nam, Morse responded, "I hope so."

Later he said that if Republican Barry Goldwater had been elected over Johnson in the 1964 presidential campaign, "The American people with the present (Democratic) Congress would have had a check on Goldwater."

Now, he said, "The only check that the American people have is the last one—the ballot."

National Farm Groups Debate U.S. Subsidies

By OVID A. MARTIN

WASHINGTON (AP)—Whether to continue government subsidies under farm stabilization programs is expected to be a major topic of debate by organized agriculture this fall and winter.

These subsidies to farmers are expected to reach a record of $3.5 billion this year.

The various national farm organizations will have this issue on the agendas of their national conventions. And they could very well make this a major controversy in the 1967 session of Congress.

For the most part, the farm payments are made to supplement income farmers receive from the sale of crops and also to limit plantings of crops that have been in surplus supply.

The American Farm Bureau Federation, an organization which reports the largest membership of any of the national farm groups, may adopt resolutions at its convention at Las Vegas, Nev., Dec. 4 to 8 urging complete withdrawal of most government farm programs.

There is a possibility, however, that this convention may witness a fight over such a proposal because many Farm Bureau bill probably is that much.

She said she'll offer to pay $800 in one lump and $100 a month until the bill is paid.

members seemingly have become enchanted with the government payments.

The National Grange which will hold its annual meeting at Minneapolis Nov. 14-22, is expected, on the other hand to endorse the continuation of payments, particularly for crops which compete in world export markets.

A main argument for the payments is that they permit domestic farm prices to be closer to world markets than had been the case under previous farm control programs which supported prices at levels generally considerably above competitive rates in export markets.

The National Farmers Union which will not hold its convention until February or March next year, will continue to support use of payments to farmers.

The upcoming argument over farm payments will come at a time when farm prices are stronger than they have been since the Korean War and also when expanded production will be needed for major crops, with the exception of cotton and tobacco.

Also, it will come at a time when the nation is confronted by problems of inflation and when the Johnson administration is trying to cut government spending.

Charles B. Shuman, president of the Farm Bureau, said recently that "farmers are weary of being told 'they never had it so good' while being forced to depend on government payment for almost 25 per cent of their income."

"Actually, the best interests of both consumers and producers of agricultural products would be better served," Shuman added, "by a withdrawal of government from its role dictating farm production and pricing policies."

With increased demand and reduced surpluses there never will be a better time to get the government out of these areas of the farming business, he added.

But Secretary of Agriculture Orville L. Freeman as well as leaders of the National Grange and the Farmers Union disagree.

They argue that the government programs are needed to keep farm production from expanding too much and bring a new depression to agriculture. Too, they contend that the payments help keep food prices from going too high to aggravate inflationary problems.

The World Today

WASHINGTON (AP) — It was and is typically hazy, which is why President Johnson likes it since he tries to keep secrets until he can reveal them as surprises.

The congressional elections are Nov. 8. But on Oct. 18 he is supposed to be in Manila for a seven-nation summit meeting with the heads of Pacific and Asian nations supporting the United States with troops in Viet Nam.

A push for peace is a major purpose of the conference. After it Johnson may visit some of those other nations. So at this point some questions come up. Does this trip have a domestic political angle? Will Johnson do any campaigning for his fellow Democrats between now and the time he goes to Manila? Will he campaign when he returns, if there is time before election day?

And — is there something cooking, but not yet disclosed, about starting peace talks with the North Vietnamese Communists?

So far Johnson has done relatively little campaigning. Some weeks ago he made trips to New England and the Midwest. It was expected he would do far more before Election Day. Weeks passed and he didn't.

His press secretary, Bill D. Moyers, was asked about it Monday. He said Johnson has received bundles of invitations to make trips and speeches but so far hasn't decided on any of them.

If this seemed strange, since all three previous presidents had campaigned for their party in off-year elections like this one, perhaps it was not so strange if meanwhile Johnson had this Manila trip in mind.

Perhaps he did, since he keeps quiet about so much. But the very way in which the news of the Manila trip came out was strange by itself.

Late Monday night, Washington time, Philippines President Ferdinand E. Marcos announced plans for the conference in a speech at Honolulu on his way home to Manila after a journey to Washington.

And here late Monday night leaks began that Johnson had decided to go and would announce it Tuesday morning. Meanwhile Monday night the White House was only saying that Johnson was interested in the idea of the meeting.

Then, sure enough, Tuesday morning the White House said Johnson would go but by that time it was hardly news since the word already was out that Johnson was going. And something else came from the White House:

That Johnson and Marcos, when the Philippines' president was here Sept. 14-16, had discussed the conference but the project, until Monday night, was a well-kept secret.

It seems reasonable to believe, in view of the way all this happened and was handled, that Johnson may have decided to go quite a while before the leaks and the White House said so.

Yet, this doesn't explain why, for most of this month Johnson did not campaign or why, since he doesn't have to be in Manila until Oct. 18, he hasn't decided to campaign between now and then. At least the White House said he hadn't decided.

His standing in the public opinion polls has been sinking. If he does little or no campaigning and the Democrats take a beating, his critics will have that much less excuse to tie the beating to him.

But suppose all the seven nations at Manila do agree on pious platitudes and fine but intangible intentions. That won't impress the thinking voters if Johnson returns and tries to call Manila a glowing success.

The best thing that could happen to the Democrats — or to Johnson — would be for him to return with news the ground had been laid for the start of peace talks with North Viet Nam.

But if that happens there will be a brand new question: When was that ground laid, during the Manila meeting or before Johnson left Washington at all?

Beck Keeps In Top Form

By James Marlow

SEATTLE, Wash. (AP) — "I got the exercise habit during that little—uh—rest in McNeil," said Dave Beck. "I would be out on that track every morning, walking four or five miles. I came out in better shape than I went in."

The former president of the Teamsters Union, released from McNeil Island federal prison on Dec. 11, 1964, after serving 2½ years for income tax evasion, continues to exercise at age 72.

Beck told an interviewer he gets out of bed each morning and rides an exercise bicycle for 15 minutes. Then he begins an isometrics routine. After a light breakfast, he goes for a brisk walk and then back up to his hilltop apartment.

The former labor leader, who led the Teamsters from 1952 to 1957, spends much of his time working on papers in connection

Mafia Hearing Resumes Friday

The World Today

WASHINGTON (AP) — It was and is typically hazy, which is the way President Johnson likes it since he tries to keep secrets until he can reveal them as surprises.

The congressional elections are Nov. 8. But on Oct. 18 he is supposed to be in Manila for a seven-nation summit meeting with the heads of Pacific and Asian nations supporting the United States with troops in Viet Nam.

A push for peace is a major purpose of the conference. After it Johnson may visit some of those other nations. So at this point some questions come up.

Does this trip have a domestic political angle? Will Johnson do any campaigning for his fellow Democrats between now and the time he goes to Manila? Will he campaign when he returns, if there is time before election day?

And — is there something cooking, but not yet disclosed, about starting peace talks with the North Vietnamese Communists?

So far Johnson has done relatively little campaigning. Some weeks ago he made trips to New England and the Midwest. It was expected he would do far more before Election Day. Weeks passed and he didn't.

His press secretary, Bill D. Moyers, was asked about it Monday. He said Johnson has received bundles of invitations to make trips and speeches but so far hasn't decided on any of them.

If this seemed strange, since all three previous presidents had campaigned for their party in off-year elections like this one, perhaps it was not so strange if meanwhile Johnson had this Manila trip in mind.

Perhaps he did, since he keeps quiet about so much. But the very way in which the news of the Manila trip came out was strange by itself.

Late Monday night, Washington time, Philippines President Ferdinand E. Marcos announced plans for the conference in a speech at Honolulu on his way home to Manila after a journey to Washington.

And here late Monday night leaks began that Johnson had decided to go and would announce it Tuesday morning. Meanwhile Monday night the White House was only saying that Johnson was interested in the idea of the meeting.

Then, sure enough, Tuesday morning the White House said Johnson would go but by that time it was hardly news since the word already was out that Johnson was going. And something else came from the White House:

That Johnson and Marcos, when the Philippines' president was here Sept. 14-16, had discussed the conference but the project, until Monday night, was a well-kept secret.

It seems reasonable to believe, in view of the way all this happened and was handled, that Johnson may have decided to go quite a while before the leaks and the White House said so.

Yet, this doesn't explain why, for most of this month Johnson did not campaign or why, since he doesn't have to be in Manila until Oct. 18, he hasn't decided to campaign between now and then. At least the White House

Beck Keeps In Top Form

SEATTLE, Wash. (AP)—"I got the exercise habit during that little—uh—rest in McNeil," said Dave Beck. "I would be out on that track every morning, walking four or five miles. I came out in better shape than I went in."

The former president of the Teamsters Union, released from McNeil Island federal prison on Dec. 11, 1964, after serving 2½ years for income tax evasion, continues to exercise at age 72.

Beck told an interviewer he gets out of bed each morning and rides an exercise bicycle for 15 minutes. Then he begins an isometrics routine. After a light breakfast, he goes for a brisk walk and then back up to his hilltop apartment.

The former labor leader, who led the Teamsters from 1952 to 1957 spends much of his time working on papers in connection

Mafia Hearing Resumes Friday

NEW YORK (AP)—A grand jury has put over until Friday its questioning of 13 Cosa Nostra chieftains while it receives an extensive background briefing from law enforcement officials.

Seven of the 13 seized last week at a "Little Apalachin" conference were told to return Friday and the other six next Monday. They were allowed to go home after a bomb scare disrupted Monday's proceedings.

The crime syndicate executives were dismissed without testifying after a 90-minute police search of the Queens County Criminal Courts Building failed to turn up any explosives. The 13 are free on $100,000 bail each as material witnesses in the inquiry.

Auto Driven
Into Airport

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — A janitor at Port Columbus paid a heavy penalty Tuesday after crashing his auto into the terminal lobby and causing damage estimated by Airport Manager Jack Bolton at approximately $10,000.

Anthony F. Mogavero, 40, the airport employee, was fined $100 and costs in Municipal Court sentence to three days in jail and had his driver's license suspended for 30 days. He pleaded guilty to a charge of operating a motor vehicle while intoxicated.

Airport officials said the incident took place shortly after Mogavero went off duty. They said his car knocked down two trees outside the terminal, then crashed through two plate glass doors, drove into the lobby and wrecked two glass display cases smashed the door of the men's lounge and ended up in front of the United Airlines counter.

Mogavero suffered only a cut lip on the wild ride.

Candidate Hits
Stream Pollution

"Stream Pollution" was the theme of Hocking County Representative Harry L. Armstrong's talk this week when the 17th District senatorial candidate addressed members of the Ross County Farmers Club, an agricultural service organization.

"The Ohio Water Pollution Control Board does a good job with the manpower and funds available, but I for one am in favor of legislation to step up our pollution abatement program in Ohio by appropriating more money and providing more manpower for this purpose," the Logan Republican declared.

Armstrong pointed out that the new oil and gas conservation law, of which he was the chief author, is the state's first preventative pollution law.

"The Scioto River basin needs attention as to pollution and it is

Chicago Firm
Considers Ohio

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—The "Rhodes Raiders" team of Ohio industry seekers think they have a live prospect in a Chicago area electronics firm.

State Development Director Fred P. Neuenschwander said Tuesday night the Buckeye squad of 22 "blitzing" Chicago this week had informed him the unidentified company probably would establish a plant in central or Southern Ohio, given the right conditions.

He said the firm wanted a suitable site with a labor pool from which it could draw 2,000 for initial employment. The facility might expand eventually to 5,000 workers, he added.

CLEVELAND (AP) — The Standard Oil Co. (Ohio) has acquired all of the common stock in Mountaineer Carbon Co. of Cresop, W. Va., in which it previously shared ownership equally with Consolidation Coal Co. of Pittsburgh.

Dog, Master
Wear Lenses

CHICAGO (AP) — Fritz's friends thought he was acting a little snooty. He never acknowledged their presence until they were directly in front of him. Now Fritz has contact lenses, and they've made a new dog of him.

His master, Howard Goodrich, mentioned to his optometrist that the 11-year-old dachshund had been giving him the cold shoulder.

The optometrist fitted Goodrich with contact lenses, and he decided to prescribe the same thing for Fritz, commenting, "it's not as crazy as you might think."

Fritz was fitted for the lenses Tuesday.

Teays Council
Elects Officers

The first meeting of the 1966-67 Teays Valley Student Council was highlighted by an election of officers.

Elected were: president, Pat Kunke; vice president, Ron Leatherwood; secretary, Nina Moss; treasurer, Richard Barr; news reporter, Richard Petty.

The council discussed plans for the class elections. It was decided that petitions were to be in by Sept. 23. Each candidate must have 10 per cent of the signatures in his own class who have not previously signed another petition for the same office.

Campaigns began Monday. There was to be an assembly for all candidates on Wednesday to give speeches. On Friday, Sept. 29, the election will be held.

Laborers Filch
Rice Shipments

JAKARTA, Indonesia (AP) — ly closed door of Indonesia.

The sweating dockworker sank his hook into the gunny sack of American rice and swung it onto the shoulder of another. He gave a sharp tug to release the hook and rice began spilling from the sack.

The entire dock beside the American freighter glistened with spilled rice, part of $9 million worth the United States government is shipping Indonesia.

Out of the 4,000-ton shipment, nearly 1,500 tons of the rice is spilled onto the docks, where it will be swept up and largely kept by the laborers.

The rice was sold to Indonesia technically for dollars — but Indonesia has no money to pay.

The rice and a shipment of cotton worth $10.5 million were steps by the United States to put its foot back inside the previous-sick after six months in Colombia but didn't have the money to take a plane back to Mexico. It would have taken too long to work his way home on a freighter — the way he went to Colombia.

"It's incredible, but he apparently did ride in the wheel well all the way from Bogota," said Ramon Watkins, the Mexico City manager for Colombia's Avianca Airline.

The four-engine jet flew as high as 34,000 feet through air temperatures as low as 45 degrees below zero, Watkins said.

The lad was cramped into the wheel well so tightly that after the plane landed in Mexico City early Tuesday he could not get down. He had to call for help to mechanics servicing the plane.

Doctors looked him over, found nothing wrong and turned him over to Mexican immigration authorities. They established his Mexican citizenship.

"He's free now and left for Queretaro as soon as we let him go," an immigration official said Tuesday night.

Watkins said the plane's flight time from Bogota to Mexico City was more than four hours. The plane spent about an hour on the ground in Panama, its only stop.

Francisco said he sneaked into the wheel well about 30 minutes before the plane took off from Bogota Monday night. He squeezed to one side of the compartment and hoped the wheels would not crush him when they were retracted.

"The plane took off and the wheels started coming up and I thought I was going to be crushed," he said. "The wheels came in and I squeezed to one side as far as I could and saw they wouldn't mash me. Then the doors closed in the floor and everything was dark."

Mechanics serviced the plane in Panama but in the darkness didn't see Francisco huddled in the wheel well.

A full-scale aid program, cut off here last year at the peak of Communist-inspired attacks against the United States government, is being considered again for this nation.

Indonesia has 109 million people, based on a 1961 census and a 2.5 per cent annual increase. This and its strategic position in Southeast Asia make it too big to be ignored.

Indonesian marines, with Soviet-made submachine guns under their arms, are guarding the rice as it is unloaded. But they look the other way as workers sweep up hundreds of pounds.

If rice is given by the United States as a grant — which it is expected to do soon — controls will be tighter, American officials say.

Order Trees Now for Fall And Spring

Don Archer, work unit conservationists with the Pickaway Soil and Water Conservation district, announced that now is the time to order trees for the approaching fall and spring planting seasons.

From a good land use standpoint, Ohio has thousands of acres that should be planted to trees, Archer said. During the past year, SCS technicians assisted hundreds of Ohio landowners to plan areas for tree planting.

The important thing now is to place the orders for seedlings. A variety of both conifer and broadleaf species are available again from State Division of Forestry and Reclamation nurseries, Archer stated. He pointed out that these State nursery seedlings are to be used for forestry or windbreak purposes only; they may not be used strictly as ornamentals or landscaping.

There are many side benefits forestry or windbreak plantings, Archer stated. These may include farmstead beauty enhancement, local wind speed reduction, recreation possibilities, wildlife food and cover, as well as watershed production. These are in addition to the economic benefit from the eventual sale of high value timber trees, he said.

Demand for certain species often exceeds supply; therefore, applications should be submitted well in advance to insure delivery.

Applications for tree seedlings from State nurseries must be submitted to the Department of Natural Resources, Division of Forestry and Reclamation, 815 Ohio Department Building, Columbus, Ohio 43215. Forms and price lists are available at local offices of the State Farm Forestry, the County Agent, the Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service, and the Soil and Water Conservation District.

SHE PLAYS TOESIE — Mrs. Shirley Padilla laughs over the predicament she got herself into at home in Oxnard, Calif. She saw that bowling ball in the garage, and on impulse she stuck her big toe into the thumb hole. Couldn't get it out! So she dragged her way into the house, got the car keys, dragged back to the garage and drove to the Fire Department. A dab of oil freed her. Five years ago she stuck the same toe up a bathtub faucet and her husband had to saw the faucet apart to release her.

BABY'S CRY

Q. Can you tell whether a baby is sick by the way he cries?
A. Sometimes, but be alert also for the baby who is too sick to cry. The child who looks sick but just whimpers may be in serious trouble. Babies can get sick in a hurry. If there is any doubt about whether a child is ill or not, call a doctor.

BIRTHMARKS

Q. Our 2-month-old has a brown birthmark on her neck. Can such marks be removed and if so, at what age?
A. Birthmarks often disappear by the time the child reaches school age. Whether the mark should be removed or not depends on its type. You should seek the advice of your doctor. From a cosmetic standpoint, the most dreaded type of birthmark (and the most common) is the reddish, port wine stain. This type seldom fades with age. On the other hand, the most alarming birthmark — the deep-seated hemangioma, consisting of a mass of distended veins — often disappears during the first two years of life.

Answers appearing in these columns are of necessity brief and general and do not necessarily reflect the opinion of all physicians. Remember — the diagnosis and treatment of disease is the function of the patient's personal physician.

A ROK squad leader orders his South Korean machine gun squad into action in the central highlands of embattled Viet Nam.

Korean Troops Valuable Aid in Viet Nam War

By SANFORD MAPKEY
Written Especially for Central Press and This Newspaper

The American Colonel looked at the khaki-clad soldiers crossing the main street in Saigon and remarked:

"At the end of the Korean War, had anyone told me ROK soldiers would be fighting with us in Southeast Asia, I would have thought he was suffering from shell shock."

The colonel, back from a tour at the vital intersection, on the coast, of routes 19 and 1, where the Korean Tiger Division scored some outstanding successes, jocularly added, "Yep, the ROKs are rocks."

The Americans are taking particular delight in the performance of 20,000 Korean troops in Viet Nam and with another 20,000 scheduled to come this summer. The ROKs — abbreviation for Republic of Korea troops — have been trained and equipped by Americans and, said the colonel, "with the record they're chalking up we know the South Vietnamese can do as well."

In the Viet Nam war where captured real estate seems relatively meaningless, it's the kill ratio that counts. The ROKs have a credit of more than 2,200 killed, an exceptionally high ratio of 14 to 1 when compared to the Pentagon's claim that 4-to-1 is good.

The Korean Blue Dragons, another unit, is amassing a particularly good record. In last year's "Operation Christmas" and in subsequent battles with the enemy Viet Cong, the marine combat brigade killed more than 500.

The first Koreans arrived in February of 1965 and were dubbed "The Dove Unit." It consisted of about 2,500 engineers and transportation personnel who have built bridges, buildings and schools. They are members of mobile surgical teams who have treated thousands of civilians and wounded troops.

Fighting men arrived last October with the first contingent going ashore on Quinhom Beach, northeast of Saigon. The Blue Dragons arrived later at Camranh Bay and have become one of the key units guarding this vitally expanding American base.

There's a decided effectiveness about Koreans in their tour of duty in Viet Nam.

"We are of a similar way of life. It is easier for us to become friends with the Vietnamese because we have similar customs and we even look alike," said one top ROK officer at Di An, about 10 miles northeast of Saigon where the "Doves" are based.

Furthermore, the Korean hopes to build his fighting image in Viet Nam. His allies, the American and the Australian, already have recognized reputations in international fighting. For many Koreans this is a continuation of his own history — of the Communist invasion from the north, and their divided land at the 18th parallel.

South Korean President Park Chung Hee highlighted this point in remarks to his troops when they departed for Southeast Asia:

"I am not unaware of the risks that await the lives of our young men in Viet Nam's war front. Neither am I blind to the critical situation facing the country at home. This, however, is a due moral responsibility and obligation we, as faithful members of the free world, should accept."

To date, the ROKs are doing just that.

Johnson expressed gratitude for assistance he said the American cooperative movement is extending underdeveloped countries in building similar organizations.

"The needy in rural areas of other lands are taking the same first steps of cooperative endeavor as did our farmers years ago," he said. "I am greatly heartened by the quick response of our cooperatives to the opportunity and responsibility of helping build this worthwhile process abroad."

Waldon, who acted as master of ceremonies, was introduced by baseball league president Marvin Hicks. Hicks told of some of the history concerning the organization of the Youth Baseball League in Ashville.

In 1953 Waldon took over the local Boy Scout program, which had lost its charter, and re-established this program. At the same time, he formed the first youth baseball team in this community.

From that first team in 1953, the program has grown to four Mosquito League teams, seven Little League teams, four girls' softball teams and the championship Pony League team.

This year as well as in the past years, Waldon has furnished uniforms, balls and bats not only for the Pony team but also for the Babe Ruth and the Little League All-Star teams. He also assumed most of the entry fees for tournaments in Circleville, Groveport, Columbus and Chillicothe.

Waldon presented trophies which he had secured for several team members. Recipients were Danny Hicks for the most valuable player; Duane Patricio, the most improved player; Rex Gregg, the best batting average which was .528; Kenny Parson, most home runs; Van Gregg for pitching a shutout game against Groveport. Bill Nyhart received the Sportsmanship award. Other team members receiving small individual trophies were Don Stir, Wayne Brown, Jeff Helser, Tom Pickering and Mike Forquer.

A ROK squad leader orders his South Korean machine gun squad into action in the central highlands of embattled Viet Nam.

Korean Troops Valuable Aid in Viet Nam War

By SANFORD MARKEY
Written Especially for Central Press and This Newspaper

The American Colonel looked at the khaki-clad soldiers crossing the main street in Saigon and remarked:

"At the end of the Korean War, had anyone told me ROK soldiers would be fighting with us in Southeast Asia, I would have thought he was suffering from shell shock."

The colonel, back from a tour at the vital intersection, on the coast, of routes 19 and 1, where the Korean Tiger Division scored some outstanding successes, jocularly added, "Yep, the ROKs are rocks."

The Americans are taking particular delight in the performance of 20,000 Korean troops in Viet Nam and with another 20,000 scheduled to come this summer. The ROKs — abbreviation for Republic of Korea troops — have been trained and equipped by Americans and, said the colonel, "with the record they're chalking up we know the South Vietnamese can do as well."

In the Viet Nam war where captured real estate seems relatively meaningless, it's the kill ratio that counts. The ROKs have a credit of more than 2,200 killed, an exceptionally high ratio of 14 to 1 when compared to the Pentagon's claim that 4 to 1 is good.

The Korean Blue Dragons, another unit, is amassing a particularly good record. In last year's "Operation Christmas" and in subsequent battles with the enemy Viet Cong, the marine combat brigade killed more than 500.

The first Koreans arrived in February of 1965 and were dubbed "The Dove Unit." It consisted of about 2,500 engineers and transportation personnel who have built bridges, buildings and schools. They are members of mobile surgical teams who have treated thousands of civilians and wounded troops.

Fighting men arrived last October with the first contingent going ashore on Quinhom Beach, northeast of Saigon. The Blue Dragons arrived later at Camranh Bay and have become one of the key units guarding this vitally expanding American base.

There's a decided effectiveness about Koreans in their tour of duty in Viet Nam.

"We are of a similar way of life. It is easier for us to become friends with the Vietnamese because we have similar customs and we even look alike," said one top ROK officer at Di An, about 10 miles north-east of Saigon where the "Doves" are based.

Furthermore, the Korean hopes to build his fighting image in Viet Nam. His allies, the American and the Australian, already have recognized reputations in international fighting. For many Koreans this is a continuation of his own history — of the Communist invasion from the north, and their divided land at the 18th parallel.

South Korean President Park Chung Hee highlighted this point in remarks to his troops when they departed for Southeast Asia:

"I am not unaware of the risks that await the lives of our young men in Viet Nam's war front. Neither am I blind to the critical situation facing the country at home. This, however, is a due moral responsibility and obligation we, as faithful members of the free world, should accept."

To date, the ROKs are doing just that.

Waldon, who acted as master of ceremonies, was introduced by baseball league president Marvin Hicks. Hicks told of some of the history concerning the organization of the Youth Baseball League in Ashville.

In 1953 Waldon took over the local Boy Scout program, which had lost its charter, and re-established this program. At the same time, he formed the first youth baseball team in this community.

From that first team in 1953, the program has grown to four Mosquito League teams, seven Little League teams, four girls' softball teams and the championship Pony League team.

This year as well as in the past years, Waldon has furnished uniforms, balls and bats not only for the Pony team but also for the Babe Ruth and the Little League All-Star teams. He also assumed most of the entry fees for tournaments in Circleville, Groveport, Columbus and Chillicothe.

Waldon presented trophies which he had secured for several team members. Recipients were Danny Hicks for the most valuable player; Duane Patrio, the most improved player; Rex Gregg, the best batting average which was .528; Kenny Parson, most home runs; Van Gregg for pitching a shutout game against Groveport. LBJ Praises Farm Coops

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Johnson said Tuesday co-operatives, especially farm, have become an important part of the nation's economic life.

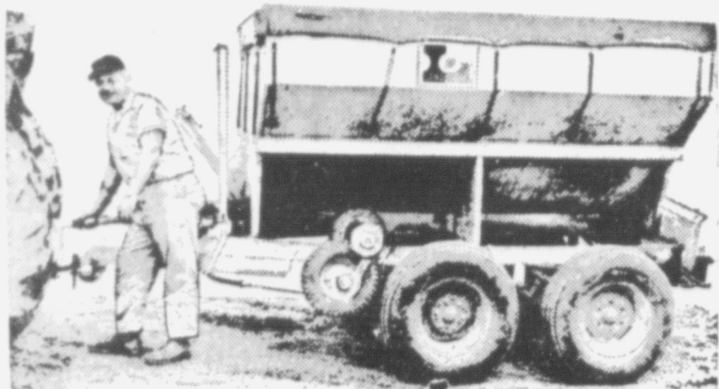

"Formed from the urgent need to provide better business services, cooperatives at first were merely islands of economic hope," he said. "Over the past 40 years they have become an important part of our economic life."

The President issued a statement opening Agriculture Department observance of October as Cooperative Month. The department aids farm co-operatives through research, information and guidance.

Johnson expressed gratitude for assistance he said the American cooperative movement is extending underdeveloped countries in building similar organizations.

"The needy in rural areas of other lands are taking the same first steps of cooperative endeavor as did our farmers years ago," he said. "I am greatly heartened by the quick response of our cooperatives to the opportunity and responsibility of helping build this worthwhile process abroad."

Robinson Road Honors Frank

BALTIMORE (AP) — Frank Robinson had a Baltimore street temporarily named in his honor this week. The slugging outfielder of the American League champion Orioles hopes the feeling behind it is more permanent . . . and sincere.

"I don't like two-faced people," Robinson said today. "I don't like people to act nice to my face and then stab me in the back. I'd rather have them come right out and tell me how they feel."

Robinson is candid in his conversation, freely speaking his mind, and expects the same from others. Perhaps they're why he didn't mind — at least understood — the racial slurs directed at him as a minor league player 12 years ago.

That was in 1954, when Robinson became the third Negro player on the Columbia, S. C., team in the Sally League.

"Actually, it wasn't too bad — especially in Columbia," Robinson said. "But there was quite a bit of yelling from the stands in Macon and Augusta, Ga. It was the first time I had played ball in the South and it took awhile to get used to. Even so, it was better than I anticipated."

As late as last February, Robinson was confronted by an anti-Negro feeling in Baltimore after he was obtained in a trade with the Cincinnati Reds.

Robinson said his representative, searching for a house while the Orioles were in spring training, "ran into opposition when some people found out who the house was for."

A house finally was located in a changing neighborhood, now predominantly Negro. It was there that Cedarale Road was changed to Robinson Road on Monday.

SCO Principals Name Maple League Publicity Director

Principals of the six South Central Ohio League schools have asked Paul E. Maple, a former Wilmington High School coach, to serve as publicity director for league sports activities.

Maple served in this capacity last year, marking the first time the league officially had a publicity director.

The initial effort was a "complete flop" according to Maple. He noted that over one half of the schools failed to report weekly statistics to him.

Maple was formerly an assistant football coach and head track coach at Wilmington. He is currently principal of the Martinsville Elementary School.

MAPLE earned his master's degree at Ohio University. His thesis presented in partial fulfillment of the requirements for the degree of master of education, was a history of the South Central Ohio High School Athletic League.

After three non-league games have been played by each SCO school, here is the way Maple sums up the league picture.

"On Labor Day, the Wilmington Hurricane was a solid favorite to repeat as league champion. Three short weeks later, the SCOL could be up for grabs. "No less than a half-dozen devastating injuries have riddled an otherwise potent Hurricane lineup. This, coupled with the fine pre-league showing of Washington and Greenfield, could produce a gala 'fireworks' display."

"At this writing, the final league standings could look something like this: Washington C. H. could win it by stopping Wilmington this week; Wilmington, Greenfield, Circleville, Miami Trace and Hillsboro to follow."

Reds, Houston Play 2 Tonight

CINCINNATI (AP)—The Cincinnati Reds, rained out Tuesday for the eighth time at home this season, face the Houston Astros in a twilight double-header tonight with reports Pete Rose may be back in the lineup. Rose, whose .329 batting average leads the Reds, has removed the splint from his right wrist and might be able to play. He's been out since Friday.

Rose injured his hand last week in Chicago and Friday night was the first game he had missed since late in 1964.

All Three County Gridiron Teams Will Play Home Games This Friday

All three of Pickaway County's high school football teams play home games this week.

Westfall and Teays Valley begin action in their own respective leagues. Logan Elm has one tilt remaining before loop warfare opens.

Teays Valley will host Hamilton Twp. in Metropolitan League action. Westfall meets visiting Unioto and the Logan

Elm gridiron will be the site of a battle between the Braves and Dublin.

Dublin defeated Columbus Northland, 14-0 last week. They had previously defeated Mt. Gil-ead, 22-16, but opened the season with a 22-8 loss to Buckeye Valley.

DUBLIN is fast and they hit hard, according to reports received by coach Jim Butz of Logan Elm.

Logan Elm has been hit by injuries and with the flu bug, Butz says. As many as seven gridders have missed practice sessions this week and the depth problem faced at the beginning of the year is beginning to manifest itself.

"Teays Valley was a well conditioned team and they showed us we could push our conditioning more," Butz said. Practice sessions this week have been pointed in that direction.

"We think we can beat Dublin," Butz said. "And if the boys want to play, we will beat them. Our team has been improving each week and I hope we don't reach a plateau until the end of the season," he added.

Hamilton Twp. opened the season by taking a 64-8 shelling from Columbus Marion-Franklin and a 48-0 beating by Cardington.

However, last week they got in the win column by edging Columbus St. Mary's High School, 12-6.

HAMILTON'S returning lettermen include halfbacks John Gorczyca and Jeff Nelson, quarterbacks Ernie Spires and Eric Bomhard, fullback Steve Yates, ends Steve Nelson and Richard Tomlinson, tackles Jerry Keys, guard Dale Brigner and center Jim Schumacher.

Gorczyca, a starter last year, was sidelined in the first game of the season with a shoulder separation. He is still on the doubtful list.

"They have played some real fine teams," Marion Waits, TV coach points out. The Metropolitan League schools exchange game films prior to contests.

After studying the Hamilton film, Waits notes they use a pro offense from a variety of formations and throw the ball a good deal.

Bill Welch, TV linebacker was shaken up against Logan Elm last week and has seen no contact yet this week. He remains a doubtful starter for the Vikings as does defensive safety Fred Patricio, who has been out of school with the flu.

In addition, center Stanley Will has been slowed with an apparent case of flu according to Waits.

THE VIKING coach plans no changes either offensively or defensively with his squad. "We'll still use a five-man front on defense and will run from the wing T and use the shotgun some," he says.

In practice sessions this week, the Vikings have been concentrating on moving the ball inside the 10-yard line. Waits' gridders have been inside their opponents' 10 on six occasions this season, but have failed to score.

Unioto, defending champion of the Scioto Valley Conference, is off to a great start this year under head coach Jim VanDeGrift.

The Shermans opened the season by beating Adena, 22-0, stopped the Paint Valley Bearcats, 29-8 in the second game and last week rode roughshod over Westfall, 45-0.

This second meeting of the two teams is the one that counts in conference standings.

Len Gwiazdowsky, Mustang coach, reports the two practice sessions this week have been good. With the exception of the Westfall quarterbacks, both slowed with ankle injuries, the team is in good physical shape.

TWO of the seniors have been down with the flu but he expects them to be ready by Friday's game.

Gwiazdowsky will be mixing up the offensive calls, running the team from both the I formation and the shotgun.

Remember Goose? He Hit First Homer Off Feller

NEW YORK (AP) — Quick now. Who hit the first homer ever off Bob Feller?

Here's a hint. The batter's last name starts with a G and the year was 1936. Feller's first season in the major leagues.

Give up? The answer is Goose Goslin, who won the 1935 World Series for the Detroit Tigers with his historic hit that drove in the winning run in the sixth and final game against the Chicago Cubs.

Goslin, a fit-looking 65-year-old who played 19 seasons in the majors from 1921 through 1938, told about it Tuesday night at a party to help publicize "The Glory of Their Times," Lowrence Bitter's book of reminiscences of 22 baseball oldtimers.

Feller, hailed as one of the game's greatest pitchers when he came up as a 17-year-old rookie, was noted for his blazing fast ball.

"I remember it well," Goslin said. "Everyone was talking about his fast ball at the time. And, if you remember, there was nothing I liked better than to hit fast balls."

"Well, the first time I faced Feller he gave me a fast ball on the very first pitch. I hit it into the second deck in right field."

Goose, whose name is Leon Allen Goslin, is far better known, however, for his ninth-inning single in the sixth game of the 1935 World Series that beat the Cubs 4-3 and brought Detroit its first World Series championship.

Goose, who lives in Salem,

N.J., played with the Washington Senators, the old St. Louis Browns and Detroit in his 2,287-game major league career. He played in three World Series with Washington in 1924, 1925 and 1933 before the 1935 Series with Detroit.

Bill Rigney Signs 1967 Angels Pact

ANAHEIM, Calif. (AP)—"It's the best contract I have ever had," said Bill Rigney, who will return in 1967 for his seventh season as manager of the California Angels.

Rigney, 48, the senior manager in the American League, confirmed Tuesday that he could have had the Detroit managerial post if he had wanted to make the move. Instead, he accepted another one-year contract at Anaheim.

THE VIKING coach plans no changes either offensively or defensively with his squad.

"We'll still use a five-man front on defense and will run from the wing T and use the shotgun some," he says.

In practice sessions this week, the Vikings have been concentrating on moving the ball inside the 10-yard line. Waits' gridders have been inside their opponents' 10 on six occasions this season, but have failed to score.

Unioto, defending champion of the Scioto Valley Conference, is off to a great start this year under head coach Jim Van-DeGrift.

The Shermans opened the season by beating Adena, 22-0, stopped the Paint Valley Bearcats, 29-5 in the second game and last week rode roughshod over Westfall, 45-0.

This second meeting of the two teams is the one that counts in conference standings.

Len Gwiazdowsky, Mustang coach, reports the two practice sessions this week have been good. With the exception of the Westfall quarterbacks, both slowed with ankle injuries, the team is in good physical shape.

TWO of the seniors have been down with the flu but he expects them to be ready by Friday's game.

Gwiazdowsky will be mixing up the offensive calls, running the team from both the I formation and the shotgun.

Remember Goose? He Hit First Homer Off Feller

NEW YORK (AP) — Quick now. Who hit the first homer ever off Bob Feller?

Here's a hint. The batter's last name starts with a G and the year was 1936. Feller's first season in the major leagues.

Give up? The answer is Goose Goslin, who won the 1935 World Series for the Detroit Tigers with his historic hit that drove in the winning run in the sixth and final game against the Chicago Cubs.

Goslin, a fit-looking 65-year-old who played 19 seasons in the majors from 1921 through 1938, told about it Tuesday night at a party to help publicize "The Glory of Their Times," Lawrence Sanders' book of reminiscences of 22 baseball oldtimers.

Feller, hailed as one of the game's greatest pitchers when he came up as a 17-year-old rookie, was noted for his blazing fast ball.

"I remember it well," Goslin said. "Everyone was talking about his fast ball at the time. And, if you remember, there was nothing I liked better than to hit fast balls."

Well, the first time I faced Feller he gave me a fast ball on the very first pitch. I hit it into the second deck in right field."

Goose, whose name is Leon Allen Goslin, is far better known, however, for his ninth-inning single in the sixth game of the 1935 World Series that beat the Cubs 4-3 and brought Detroit its first World Series championship.

Goose, who lives in Salem,

N.J., played with the Washington Senators, the old St. Louis Browns and Detroit in his 2,287-game major league career. He played in three World Series with Washington in 1924, 1925 and 1933 before the 1935 Series with Detroit.

Bill Rigney Signs 1967 Angels Pact

ANAHEIM, Calif. (AP)—"It's the best contract I have ever had," said Bill Rigney, who will return in 1967 for his seventh season as manager of the California Angels.

Rigney, 48, the senior manager in the American League, confirmed Tuesday that he could have had the Detroit managerial post if he had wanted to make the move. Instead, he accepted another one-year contract at Anaheim.

Spartans Get Nod To Win Illini Clash

Forecaster Sees Washington Loss To OSU Bucks

By HAROLD CLAASSEN
NEW YORK (AP) — Do you think the day will come when the football forecaster will be replaced by a computer?

Perhaps the electronic equipment should have been used last week when the figures were 45 correct picks in 60 decisions for .750. That raised the season's totals to 75-27 for .735.

Turning on the human think tank for this weekend's games: Michigan State over Illinois — Illini couldn't win when their top back, Cyril Pinder, was well so how can they triumph with him on the injured list? Clint Jones, Spartan rusher, averaging six yards on each carry.

UCLA over Missouri — Beban acts like a B-bomb. Charlie Brown, who does a lot of the playing for Missouri, is ailing.

Mississippi over Alabama — For no reason at all except that Mississippi hasn't beaten Alabama since 1910, and it is time for a change. Ole Miss has won from two tough foes, Alabama warmed up by beating Louisiana Tech.

Notre Dame over Northwestern: The Irish battery of Hanratty-to-Seymour should get the job done.

Southern California over Oregon State — Too many Trojans. Nebraska over Iowa State — Those Nebraska linemen are so big that the seven-man offense line has to crowd together to keep from going out of bounds.

Arkansas over Texas Christian — TCU had hopes of winning its first three games — Nebraska, Ohio State and Arkansas. But the Horned Frogs lost the first two and also will lose the third.

Michigan over North Carolina — The Big Ten club will rely on Dick Vidmer.

Georgia Tech over Clemson — Jimmy Addison, the Clemson quarterback, can't pull off miracles on successive week ends.

Tennessee over Rice — The Volunteers' only weakness is at end.

Ohio State over Washington — The Buckeyes now have an air attack plus their usual supply of power runners.

Purdue over Southern Methodist — Bob Griese won't be hemmed in again.

Penn State over Army — In the usual squeaker.

Others: Bowling Green over Davton, Kent State over Ohio University, Miami of Ohio over Western Michigan, Toledo over Marshall, Wichita over Cincinnati.

League Pennant Waves Within Dodgers Grasp

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
"Things are a little bit better than they were this morning," Manager Walter Alston said Monday night after his Los Angeles Dodgers increased their National League lead to 2½ games with six left.

"Well, we're a half game better than we were yesterday," Alston said Tuesday night after a 2-0 victory over St. Louis increased the Dodgers' lead to three games with five to go.

"I'd say we're in slightly better shape than we were before the game," one might expect Alston to say tonight if the Dodgers increase their lead to 4½ games with four to go.

Chances are Alston would be more positive than he usually is if the Dodgers clinch their second straight pennant tonight.

The Dodgers' triumph Tuesday night reduced their magic number to three, meaning any combination of Los Angeles victories and Pittsburgh losses totaling three would give the Dodgers the pennant.

The second-place Pirates, who were rained out Tuesday night, play Philadelphia twice tonight, and the Dodgers play the Cardinals once.

The third-place San Francisco Giants, four games behind the Dodgers and one behind the Pirates, also would have to lose to the Braves in Atlanta tonight.

In the only other NL game, San Francisco defeated Atlanta 6-3. Rain also washed out Houston at Cincinnati and Chicago at New York.

In the American League, California stopped Detroit 6-2, Minnesota downed Cleveland 5-1 and Boston ended its season by nipping Chicago 2-1 after losing 1-0. Kansas City at Baltimore and New York at Washington lost to the rain.

Don Drysdale was the Dodgers' latest hero as he shut out St. Louis on four hits for his fourth straight victory and 13th against 16 defeats.

Ron Fairly gave the big right-hander the only run he needed with a second-inning homer, but the Dodgers added one in the sixth on a double by Jim LeFebvre and Lou Johnson's single.

Willie Mays drove in four runs with his 36th homer and a single, keeping the Giants mathematically alive. They're in third place, four games out. Mays' slugging offset Hank Aaron's 43rd homer, a three-run blow in the fourth inning. Lindy McDaniel allowed the Braves just one hit in six innings of relief.

Bellino Returns To Pro Football

BOSTON (AP) — Joe Bellino, Navy's former All-America halfback and Heisman Trophy winner, appeared set for another pro shot today with the Boston Patriots of the American Football League.

The Patriots were expected to re-activate the 28-year-old Bellino to replace the injured Billy Johnson, a defensive halfback and kickoff return specialist.

AFL waivers were asked Tuesday on Johnson, a rookie from Nebraska.

Bellino, who was cut by the Patriots a week before the start of the regular season, joined the club's taxi squad in working out the second year of a two-year contract.

Spartans Get Nod To Win Illini Clash

Forecaster Sees Washington Loss To OSU Bucks

By HAROLD CLAASSEN
NEW YORK (AP) — Do you think the day will come when the football forecaster will be replaced by a computer?

Perhaps the electronic equipment should have been used last week when the figures were 45 correct picks in 60 decisions for .750. That raised the season's totals to 75-27 for .735.

Turning on the human tank for this weekend's games: Michigan State over Illinois—

Illini couldn't win when their top back, Cyril Pinder, was well so how can they triumph with him on the injured list? Clint Jones, Spartan rusher, over-averaging six yards on each carry.

UCLA over Missouri — Beban acts like a B-bomb. Charlie Brown, who does a lot of the playing for Missouri, is ailing. Your television bit for the day.

Mississippi over Alabama — For no reason at all except that Mississippi hasn't beaten Alabama since 1910, and it is time for a change. Ole Miss has won from two tough foes, Alabama warmed up by beating Louisiana Tech.

Notre Dame over Northwestern: The Irish battery of Hanratty-to-Seymour should get the job done.

Southern California over Oregon State — Too many Trojans. Nebraska over Iowa State — Those Nebraska linemen are so big that the seven-man offense line has to crowd together to keep from going out of bounds.

Arkansas over Texas Christian — TCU had hopes of winning its first three games — Nebraska, Ohio State and Arkansas. But the Horned Frogs lost the first two and also will lose the third.

Michigan over North Carolina — The Big Ten club will rely on Dick Vidmer.

Georgia Tech over Clemson — Jimmy Addison, the Clemson quarterback, can't pull off miracles on successive week ends.

Tennessee over Rice — The Volunteers' only weakness is at end.

Ohio State over Washington — The Buckeyes now have an air attack plus their usual supply of power runners.

Purdue over Southern Methodist — Bob Griese won't be hemmed in again.

Penn State over Army — In the usual squeaker.

Others: Bowling Green over Davton, Kent State over Ohio University. Miami of Ohio over Western Michigan, Toledo over Marshall, Wichita over Cincinnati.

League Pennant Waves Within Dodgers Grasp

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
"Things are a little bit better than they were this morning," Manager Walter Alton said Monday night after his Los Angeles Dodgers increased their National League lead to 2½ games with six left.

"Well, we're a half game better than we were yesterday," Alton said Tuesday night after a 2-0 victory over St. Louis increased the Dodgers' lead to three games with five to go.

"I'd say we're in slightly better shape than we were before the game," one might expect Alton to say tonight if the Dodgers increase their lead to 4½ games with four to go.

Chances are Alton would be more positive than he usually is if the Dodgers clinch their second straight pennant tonight.

The Dodgers' triumph Tuesday night reduced their magic number to three, meaning any combination of Los Angeles victories and Pittsburgh losses totaling three would give the Dodgers the pennant.

The second-place Pirates, who were rained out Tuesday night, play Philadelphia twice tonight, and the Dodgers play the Cardinals once.

The third-place San Francisco Giants, four games behind the Dodgers and one behind the Pirates, also would have to lose to the Braves in Atlanta tonight.

In the only other NL game, San Francisco defeated Atlanta 6-3. Rain also washed out Houston at Cincinnati and Chicago at New York.

In the American League, California stopped Detroit 6-2, Minnesota downed Cleveland 5-1 and Boston ended its season by nipping Chicago 2-1 after losing 1-0. Kansas City at Baltimore and New York at Washington lost to the rain.

Don Drysdale was the Dodgers' latest hero as he shut out St. Louis on four hits for his fourth straight victory and 13th against 16 defeats.

Ron Fairly gave the big right-hander the only run he needed with a second-inning homer, but the Dodgers added one in the sixth on a double by Jim LeFebvre and Lou Johnson's single.

Willie Mays drove in four runs with his 36th homer and a single, keeping the Giants mathematically alive. They're in third place, four games out. Mays' slugging offset Hank Aaron's 43rd homer, a three-run blow in the fourth inning. Lindy McDaniel allowed the Braves just one hit in six innings of relief.

Teams Credit Quarterbacks For Success

NEW YORK (AP) — Green Bay, Dallas and St. Louis can credit the passing of their quarterbacks — Bart Starr, Don Meredith and Charley Johnson — with their unbeaten success in the National Football League.

None of the three teams has a runner among the top eight ground gainers in the league, but those three signal callers lead the NFL in passing, statistics released today show.

Starr has the best over-all average with 46 completions in 69 throws for 633 yards, four touchdowns and a 9.17 yard average per toss for the Packers, 3-0.

Meredith of Dallas, 2-0, tops the rest with seven scoring heaves and an 11.11 yard average per throw while connecting on 22 passes in 46 attempts for 511 yards.

Johnson of the St. Louis Cardinals, 3-0, leads the league with 667 yards and is tied for the top with 49 completions. He has thrown 80 times for four touchdowns and a 8.34 yard average.

Bill Brown of Minnesota has replaced retired Jim Brown as the rushing leader with 278 yards on 54 carries for a 5.1 average.

Bellino Returns To Pro Football

BOSTON (AP) — Joe Bellino, Navy's former All-America halfback and Heisman Trophy winner, appeared set for another pro shot today with the Boston Patriots of the American Football League.

The Patriots were expected to re-activate the 28-year-old Bellino to replace the injured Billy Johnson, a defensive halfback and kickoff return specialist.

AFL waivers were asked Tuesday on Johnson, a rookie from Nebraska.

Bellino, who was cut by the Patriots a week before the start of the regular season, joined the club's taxi squad in working out the second year of a two-year contract.

Family of 3 Butchered In Cincinnati Suburb

CINCINNATI (AP) — Grim-faced Hamilton County police continued their search for clues today at the fashionable home in suburban Bridgetown where a chemical engineer, his wife and their 4-year-old daughter were found stabbed to death Tuesday night.

Lt. Herbert Vogel said Gerald J. Bricca, 28, an engineer for the Monsanto (agriculture) Co.; his wife Linda, 24, a former airline stewardess, and their daughter Debbie probably were killed Sunday.

Each of them had been stabbed repeatedly and police said Mrs. Bricca may have been raped. The house had been ransacked but it was not immediately clear what had been taken, police said.

Lt. Herbert Vogel, homicide chief for county police, said it was the most brutal attack he had seen in his 15 years of service.

He said blood was splattered throughout the house. Numerous drawers and cabinets had been opened and torn up, he added.

About 75 policemen swarmed to the scene when the gruesome discovery was made by a neighbor, Richard Meyer, in the tri-level Bricca home in the Bridgetown village of western Hamilton County.

"My god, I can't hardly remember even what I saw. It's just like a fog now," Meyer said later. "What they did to that baby was awful."

Police said Bricca had been stabbed in the head and back numerous times. Mrs. Bricca was stabbed several times in the chest, and Debbie had six wounds in the back and chest.

The bodies of Bricca, dressed in street clothes, but no shoes, and his wife, in nightgown, were found in one bedroom, and the daughter also dressed in a nightgown, was found in her adjoining bedroom.

Meyer and his wife said they became curious when they noticed the family's trash cans had not been taken in, papers were in the yard and that their two cars had not been moved for two days.

Another neighbor, Mrs. Emmett E. Baldwin, whose husband is head of the U.S. Weather Bureau here, said she saw Mrs. Bricca carrying out the garbage cans Sunday for Monday pickup.

"He (Bricca) never let the garbage cans sit out," Meyer said. "Then I noticed their pet rabbits were out in the rain in the backyard. I knew Mrs. Bricca wouldn't let those rabbits sit out there. She loved animals."

Meyer said he also noticed the front door was ajar. He said he consulted with another neighbor, Richard Jansen, and then went in and made the discovery.

The houses are in a new subdivision and only about 40-50 feet apart. Neighbors reported they had not seen any strangers hanging around the area, or had heard anything out of the ordinary.

Newsman were not permitted to enter the house, and police put up ropes to keep back dozens of persons who flocked to the scene.

No weapon was found, and none of the victims had been tied up, police said.
